In addition, any transfer of Ordinary Shares requires the prior execution by the transferor of a transfer agreement in a form and substance satisfactory to the Company containing representations, warranties and agreements similar to those contained in the subscription agreement and acceptable to the Company.

No transfer of Ordinary Shares may be made if such transfer would in the opinion of the Directors: (i) prejudice the tax status or residence of the Company or any of the Shareholders; (ii) cause the Company or any of its Shareholders to suffer any pecuniary, fiscal or legal or regulatory disadvantage; (iii) cause the Company to require to comply with any registration or filing requirements in any jurisdiction with which it would not otherwise be required to comply; or (iv) cause the aggregate number of US Persons who are beneficial owners of Ordinary Shares to exceed eighty (or such greater number as the Directors may determine, subject to an overall limit of one hundred) or require registration of the Company as an investment company under the 1940 Act.

Trustees, administrators and other fiduciaries investing assets of such plans and arrangements are urged to carefully review the matters discussed in this Explanatory Memorandum and to consult their own legal advisors. The Company does not intend to permit investments by “benefit plan investors” (as defined in Section 3(42) of ERISA and regulations of the Department of Labor) to equal or exceed 25% of the value of any class of equity in the Company, but reserves the right to do so at any time. See “ERISA AND OTHER BENEFIT PLAN CONSIDERATIONS.”

Risk Factors:

An investment in the Company carries significant risk and should be regarded as long term in nature and is only suitable for investors who understand the risks involved. Investors may not recover monies invested. Potential investors are referred to the Risk Factors section below for a summary of certain of the risks involved.

RISK FACTORS

Investing in the Company involves certain considerations in addition to the risks normally associated with making investments in securities. The value of the Ordinary Shares may go down as well as up and there can be no assurance that on a redemption, or otherwise, investors will receive back the amount originally invested. Accordingly, the Company is only suitable for investment by investors who understand the risks involved and who are able and willing to withstand the total loss of their investment.

Before subscribing for Ordinary Shares prospective investors should consult independent qualified sources for investment, legal and tax advice and consider, among other factors, those below:

Potential Market Volatility in the Middle East and North Africa

The prices of certain securities listed on stock markets in the Middle East and North Africa have been subject to sharp fluctuations and sudden declines and no assurance can be given as to the future performance of listed securities in general. Volatility of prices may be greater than in more developed stock markets. Prospective investors should therefore be aware that the value of Ordinary Shares and the income derived from them is likely to fluctuate.

Foreign Investment Infrastructure

The infrastructure for the safe custody of security and for purchasing and selling securities, settling trades, collecting dividends, initiating corporate actions, and following corporate activity is not as well developed in all the markets of the Middle East and North Africa as is the case in certain more developed markets. Additionally, some markets within these regions are developing fast and this can give rise to strains on the investment infrastructure.

Corporate Disclosure, Accounting and Regulatory Standards

Companies in some countries in the Middle East and North Africa are not subject to disclosure, accounting, auditing and financial standards which are equivalent to those applicable in more developed countries. Such information as is available is often less reliable. There is less rigorous government supervision and regulation. Regulatory regimes relating to foreign investment are still in their infancy in these countries. This may mean that rules are being applied for the first time or inconsistently, which may result, inter alia, in the amount and nature of information available to the Company about investee companies and potential investments being inconsistent from time to time and from company to company. In addition, companies involved in the provision of financial and investment services have only recently been subject to a more developed regulatory regime and, in particular, to restrictions on the disclosure of information. In particular new regulations drafted to impose strict requirements and conditions on such companies, equivalent to those in more developed markets have not all been implemented as yet.

Political Climate and Extremism

Many countries in the Middle East and North Africa have historically been subject to political instability and their prospects are tied to the continuation of economic and political liberalisation in the region. Instability may result from factors such as government or military intervention in decision-making, terrorism, civil unrest, extremism or hostilities between neighbouring countries. An outbreak of hostilities could result in substantial losses for the Company. Extremist groups in certain countries have traditionally held anti-Western views and are opposed to openness to foreign investments. If these movements gain strength they could have a destabilising effect on the investment activities of the Company.

In addition, the region has recently been exposed to political instability due to violent protests and demonstrations which have led to a regime change in some countries. Such political instability may continue. The unstable geopolitical climate may negatively impact market value, increase market volatility, and affect liquidity, all of which could have an adverse effect on the Company's expected returns. No assurance can be given as to the effect of these events on the value of the Ordinary Shares.

Investment in Smaller Companies

The companies in which the Company invests may include small unlisted companies, and even many of the listed companies in which the Company invests will have a lower market capitalisation than many companies listed in OECD countries. Investment in the securities of smaller companies can involve greater risks than is customarily associated in larger, more established companies. In particular, smaller companies often have limited product lines, markets or financial resources and may be dependent for their management on a smaller number of key individuals. In addition, the market for stock in smaller companies is often less liquid than that for stock in larger companies, bringing with it potential difficulties in acquiring, valuing and disposing of such stock.

Governmental Prohibitions

The investment objective and policies of the Company permit the Company to invest in securities issued by certain specified countries and issuers located within those countries. These countries include certain countries (such as, but not limited to, Iraq, Libya and Sudan), which from time to time, may be the subject of restriction on investment by US citizens. Although the Company's investment objective and policies would permit such investment, the Directors have determined that the Company will not for the time being invest in any issuer, country or jurisdiction which is the subject of restriction on investment that would preclude ownership of the portfolio security by a US person.

Conflicts of Interest

Due to the widespread operations undertaken by the EFG-Hermes Group and the Directors of the Company and their respective affiliates, employees and agents, conflicts of interest may arise. For example, any such party may promote, manage, advise, sponsor or be otherwise involved in further collective investment vehicles and, in particular there could arise conflicts relating to the allocation of investment opportunities between the Company and such other collective investment schemes or other clients of the EFG-Hermes Group. In such circumstances the EFG-Hermes Group (including the Manager) has agreed to allocate such opportunities equitably between such clients and the Company. The EFG-Hermes Group has agreed to use best efforts to resolve any such conflict fairly. In addition any such party may provide services to, or deal with the Company, as principal or agent. This may include entities related to Directors or members of the EFG-Hermes Group or the Manager acting as agent or broker in connection with the acquisition and/or disposal of investments by the Company or selling securities to the Company, as principal or agent, where such affiliate is a promoter, sponsor or underwriter or otherwise involved in the distribution of such securities. In all such cases the terms on which such services are provided or upon which such transactions are effected (including brokerage commission rates) shall be no less favourable to the Company than could have been expected had the transaction or service been effected with, by or through an independent third party. The Manager will report to the Directors, on a half-yearly basis, full details of the volume of brokerage handled by members of the EFG-Hermes Group and entities related to board members as well as the amount of brokerage commission charged.

The Company may invest in the common stock of EFG-Hermes Holding SAE which is traded on the Cairo and the London Stock Exchanges (Ticker HRHO.CA). The Company will be restricted from dealing in EFG-Hermes Holding SAE stock during the period fifteen days prior to and three days after any publication of financial results or the release of any price sensitive information that may affect the stock. Investment in EFG-Hermes Holding SAE stock will not exceed 5 percent of the Net Asset Value of the Company. Any exceptions to the above restrictions are to be approved by the Directors.

All parties shall resolve conflicts of interest that arise on an equitable basis having regard to their contractual obligations to the Company and other clients. Should a material conflict of interest actually arise, the Directors will endeavour to ensure that it is resolved fairly.

Business Risk

There can be no assurance that the Company will achieve its investment objective. The investment results of the Company will be reliant upon the success of the Manager and the Investment Adviser in pursuing the investment objective and investment policy of the Company.

General Investment and Trading Risks

All investments present the risk of loss of capital. Such investments are subject to investment-specific price fluctuations as well as to macro-economic, market and industry-specific conditions including, but not limited to, national and international economic conditions, domestic and international financial policies and performance, conditions affecting particular investments such as the financial viability of national and international politics and governmental events and changes in income tax laws. Moreover, the Company may have only limited ability to vary its investment portfolio in response to changing economic, financial and investment conditions. The Company's investment programme may utilise a wide variety of investment techniques, including option and margin transactions, short sales, commodity contracts, forwards, futures, swaps and spot contracts. In certain circumstances, trading such instruments can substantially increase the adverse impact to which the Company may be subject. No guarantee can be made that the Company's investments will be successful.

Derivatives Risk

The Company may use derivatives and this may involve risks which are different from and possibly greater than the risks associated with investing directly in securities and traditional instruments. Derivatives are subject to liquidity risk, interest rate risk, market risk and default risk. They also involve the risk of improper valuation and the risk that the changes in the value of the derivative may not correlate perfectly with the underlying asset, rate or index. The Company, when investing in derivative transactions, may lose more than the principal amount invested.

The Company may utilise both exchange-traded and over-the-counter derivatives, including, but not limited to, futures, forwards, swaps, options and contracts for differences as part of their investment policy. These instruments can be highly volatile and expose investors to a high degree of loss. The low margin deposits normally required to establish a position in such instruments permit a high degree of leverage. As a result, depending on the type of instrument, a relatively small movement in the price of a contract may result in a profit or a loss which is high in proportion to the amount of funds actually placed as initial margin and may result in unquantifiable further loss exceeding any margin deposited. In addition, daily limits on price fluctuations and speculative position limits on exchanges may prevent prompt liquidation of positions resulting in potentially greater losses. Transactions in over-the-counter contracts may involve additional risk as there is no exchange market on which to close out an open position. It may be possible to liquidate an existing position, to assess the value of a position or to assess the exposure to risk. Contractual asymmetries and inefficiencies can also increase risk, such as break clauses, collateral calls or delays in collateral recovery. The Company may also sell covered and uncovered options on securities. To the extent that such options are uncovered, the Company could incur an unlimited loss.

Forward Contracts

Forward contracts and options thereon, unlike commodity interests, are not traded on exchanges and are not standardised. Rather, banks and dealers act as principals on these markets and negotiate each contract on an individual basis. Forward and "cash" trading is substantially unregulated. There is no limitation on daily price movements and speculative position limits are not applicable. The principals who deal with the forward markets are not required to continue to make markets in the commodities they trade and these markets can experience periods of illiquidity, sometimes of significant durations. There have been periods during which certain participants in these markets have refused to quote prices for certain commodities or have quoted prices with an unusually wide spread between the price at which they were prepared to buy and at which they were prepared to sell.

Trading in Options and Swap Agreements

The prices of all derivative instruments, including options and total returns swaps, are highly volatile. Payments made pursuant to swap agreements also may be highly volatile. Price movements of option contracts and payments pursuant to swap agreements are influenced by, among other things, interest rates, changing supply and demand relationships, trade, fiscal, monetary and exchange control programmes and policies of governments and national and international political and economic events and policies. The value of options and swap agreements also depends upon the prices of the debt securities or commodities underlying them. In addition, the Company is also subject to the risk of the failure of any of the exchanges on which they trade or of their clearing houses.

The Company may purchase and sell (write) options. The seller (writer) of a put option which is covered (i.e. the writer has a short position in the underlying asset) assumes the risk of an increase in the market price of the underlying asset above the sales price in establishing the short position of the underlying asset plus the premium received, and gives the opportunity for gain on the underlying asset below the exercise price of the option. If the seller of the put option owns a put option covering an equivalent number of shares with an exercise price equal to or greater than the exercise price of the put written, the position is fully hedged if the option owned expires at the same time or later than the option written. The seller of an uncovered put option assumes the risk of a decline in the market price of the underlying asset below the exercise price of the option. The buyer of a put option assumes the risk of losing its entire investment in the put options. If the buyer of the put holds the underlying asset, the loss on the put will be offset in whole or in part by any gain on the underlying asset.

The writer of a call option which is covered (e.g. the writer holds the underlying asset) assumes the risk of a decline in the market price of the underlying asset below the value of the underlying asset less the premium received, and gives the opportunity for gain on the underlying asset above the exercise price of the option. The seller of an uncovered call option assumes the risk of a theoretically unlimited increase in the market price of the underlying asset above the exercise price of the asset. The buyer of a call option assumes the risk of losing its entire investment in the call option. If the buyer of the call sells short the underlying asset, the loss on the call will be offset, in whole or in part, by any gain on the short sale of the underlying asset.

Options may be cash settled, settled by physical delivery or by entering into a closing purchase transaction. In entering into a closing purchase transaction, the Company may be subject to the risk of loss to the extent that the premium paid for entering into such closing purchase transaction exceeds the premium received when the option was written.

Swaps and certain options and other custom instruments are subject to the risk of non-performance by the swap counterparty, including the risks relating to the financial soundness and creditworthiness of the swap counterparty.

Short Selling

Short selling involves the sale of an asset that the Company does not own in the expectation of purchasing the same asset, or an asset which is exchangeable for it, later and at a lower price. To make delivery to the buyer, the Company often must borrow the asset and the Company is obliged to return the asset to the lender, which is accomplished by a later purchase of the asset by the Company. When the Company makes a short sale of an asset on exchange, it must leave the proceeds thereof with the broker and it must also deposit with the broker an amount of cash or other securities sufficient under current margin regulations to collateralise its obligation to replace the borrowed assets that have been sold. If short sales are made on a foreign exchange, such transactions will be governed by local law. A short sale involves the risk of a theoretically unlimited increase in the market price of the asset, which could result in an ability to cover the short position and a theoretically unlimited loss. The extent to which the Company engages in short sales depends on its investment strategy and perception of market direction. The Company has no policy limiting the amount of capital it may deposit to collateralise its obligations to replace borrowed assets sold short. Short selling involves trading in margin and accordingly can involve greater risk than investments based in a long position. There can be no guarantee that securities necessary to cover a short position will be available for purchase.

Debt Securities

The Company may invest in fixed income securities which may be unrated by a credit-rating agency or below investment grade and which are subject to greater risk of loss of principal and interest than higher-rated debt securities. The Company may invest in debt securities which rank junior to other outstanding securities and obligations of the issuer, all or a significant portion of which may be secured on substantially all of that issuer's assets. The Company may invest in debt securities which are not protected by financial covenants or limitations on additional indebtedness. The Company will therefore be subject to credit, liquidity and interest rate risks. In addition, evaluating credit risk from debt securities involves uncertainty because credit-rating agencies throughout the world have different standards, making comparisons across countries difficult. Also, the market for credit spreads is often inefficient and illiquid, making it difficult to accurately calculate discounting spreads for valuing financial instruments.

Interest Rate Risks

Interest rate risk refers to fluctuations in the value of a fixed-income security resulting from changes in the general level of interest rates. When the general level of interest rates goes up, the prices of most fixed-income securities go down. When the general level of interest rates goes down, the prices of most fixed-income securities go up. Investment with longer durations tend to be more sensitive to changes in interest rates, usually making them more volatile than investments with shorter durations.

Commodity Interests

Commodity markets are highly volatile and are influenced by factors such as changing supply and demand, governmental programmes and policies, national and international political and economic events and changes in interest rates. In addition, because of low margin deposits normally required in commodity trading, a high degree of leverage is typical of commodity trading. As a result, a relatively small price movement in a commodity may result in substantial losses to the Company. Moreover, commodity positions are marked to market each day and variation margin payments must be paid to or by the Company. In addition, the Commodity Futures Trading Commission of the US and various exchanges in the US may impose speculative position limits on the number of positions that the Company may hold or control in particular commodities.

Leverage

The low margin deposits normally required in certain investments, for example commodities, may result in an extremely high degree of leverage. In addition, the Company's investment activities in securities and other investments may also be highly leveraged through borrowings. As a result, relatively small price movements may result in substantial losses to the Company and ultimately to its Shareholders. The Company may borrow funds from brokerage firms and banks on behalf of the Company in order to increase the amount of capital available for investment. In addition, the Company may, in effect, borrow funds through entering into repurchase agreements and may leverage investment returns with options, commodity interests, swaps, forwards and other derivative instruments. The amount of borrowings the Company may have outstanding at any time may be large in relation to its capital. Consequently, the level of interest rates generally and the rates at which the Company can borrow in particular will affect the operating risks to the Company. For example, should the securities pledged to brokers to secure the Company's margin accounts decline in value, the Company could be subject to a margin call pursuant to which the Company must either deposit additional funds with the broker or suffer mandatory liquidation of the pledged securities to compensate for the decline in value. In the event of a sudden precipitous drop in the value of the Company assets, the Company might not be able to liquidate assets quickly enough to pay off its margin debt. There is no leverage limit imposed in respect of the investments made by the Company.

The Company may use borrowing for the purpose of making investments. The use of borrowing creates special risks and may significantly increase the Company's investment risk. Borrowing creates an opportunity for greater yield and total return but, at the same time, will increase the Company's exposure to capital risk and interest costs. Any investment income and gains earned on investments made through the use of borrowings that are in excess of the interest costs associated therewith may cause the Net Asset Value of the Ordinary Shares to increase more rapidly than would otherwise be the case. Conversely, where the associated interest costs are greater than such income and gains, the Net Asset Value of the Ordinary Shares may decrease more rapidly than would otherwise be the case.

Hedging Transactions

The Company may utilise the assets in which it invests both for investment purposes and to seek to hedge against fluctuations in the relative values of the Company's portfolio positions as a result of changes in market interest rates. Hedging against a decline in the value of portfolio positions does not eliminate fluctuations in the values of portfolio positions or prevent losses if the values of such positions decline, but establishes other positions designed to gain from those same developments, thus moderating the decline in the portfolio positions' value. Such hedge transactions also limit the opportunity for gain of the value if the portfolio positions should increase. Moreover, it may not be possible for the Company to hedge against an interest rate fluctuation that is so generally anticipated that the Company is not able to enter into a hedging transaction at the price sufficient to protect the Company from the decline in value of the portfolio position anticipated as a result of such a fluctuation. Further, if the particular hedging strategy does not correlate with a particular investment, the Company's hedging technique could result in a loss, regardless of whether the interest was to reduce risk or increase return.

Reverse Repurchase Agreements

The entering into of reverse repurchase agreement involves certain risks. For example, if the seller of assets underlying a reverse repurchase agreement defaults on its obligation to repurchase the underlying assets, as a result of its bankruptcy or otherwise, the Company will seek to dispose of such assets, which action could involve costs or delays. If the seller becomes insolvent and subject to liquidation or reorganisation under applicable bankruptcy or other laws, the Company's ability to dispose of the underlying assets may be restricted. If the seller fails to repurchase the assets, the Company may suffer a loss to the extent proceeds from the sale of the underlying assets are less than the repurchase price.

Over-the-Counter Trading

Assets that may be purchased or sold by the Company may include assets which are not traded on an exchange. This will include, but is not limited to, swap transactions, forward foreign currency transactions and bonds and other fixed income securities. Over-the-counter options, unlike exchange traded options, are two-party contracts with price and other terms negotiated by the buyer and the seller. The risk of non-performance by the obligor on such an instrument may be greater and the ease with which the Company can dispose of or enter into closing transactions with respect to such an instrument may be less than in the case of an exchange-traded instrument. In addition, significant disparities may exist between bid and asked prices for assets that are not traded on an exchange. Assets not traded on exchanges are also not subject to the same type of government regulation as exchange-traded instruments and, of the protections afforded to participants in a regulated environment, may not be available in connection with such transactions.

To the extent that the Company engages in these transactions, it must rely on the creditworthiness of its counterparty. In certain instances, counterparty or credit risk is affected by the lack of a central clearing house for foreign exchange trades. To reduce its credit risk exposure, the Company may trade in forward currency markets through money centre banks and leading brokerage firms.

Currency and Exchange Rate Risks

The Company may invest in debt and equity assets denominated in currencies other than US Dollars and also in assets which have their prices determined with reference to currencies other than the US Dollar. The Company though will generally value its assets in US Dollars. To the extent that they are unhedged, the value of the Company's investments shall be in the various local markets and currencies. Thus any increase in the value of the US Dollar compared to the other currencies in which the Company may make investments will reduce the effect of increases and magnify the US Dollar equivalent of the effect of decreases in the prices of the Company's assets in their local markets. Conversely, a decrease in the value of the US Dollar will have the opposite affect of magnifying the effect of increases and reducing the effect of decreases in the prices of the Company's non-US Dollar assets. The Company may also utilise forward currency contracts and options to hedge against currency fluctuations. There can, however, be no assurance that such hedging transactions will be effective.

The Ordinary Shares are denominated in US Dollars, and, as such, will be issued and redeemed in that currency. Certain assets of the Company may, however, be invested in securities and other investments which are denominated in currencies other than US Dollar. Accordingly, the value of such assets may be affected favourably or unfavourably by fluctuations in currency rates. The Manager and Investment Adviser may seek to hedge the resulting foreign currency exposure of the Company. However, the Company will necessarily be subject to foreign exchange risks. In addition, prospective investors whose assets and liabilities are predominantly in other currencies should take into account the potential risk of loss arising from fluctuations in value between the US Dollar and such other currencies.

Credit Risk and Default Risk

The Company could lose money if the issuer or granter of a fixed-income security or the counterparty to a derivatives contract or a repurchase agreement does not make timely payments or honour its obligations. Debt instruments are subject to varying degrees of credit risks which are reflected in credit ratings. Debt instruments in the Company's portfolio may range in credit from unrated to investment grade 1 debt.

Non-US Exchanges

The Company will trade on exchanges and markets located outside the US. Trading on exchanges outside the US is not regulated by the SEC or the Commodities Futures Trading Commission and therefore may be subject to greater or different risks than trading on US exchanges. These can include the risks of exchange controls, expropriation, burdensome taxation, moratoria and political or diplomatic events. Risks in investments made in non-US securities may also include reduced and less reliable information about issuers and markets, less stringent accounting standards, illiquidity of securities and markets, higher brokerage commission rates and custody fees.

Counterparty and Settlement Risk

Transactions by the Company will not be limited to transactions on, or effected under the rules of, major securities or futures exchanges and it is expected that a significant number of trades will be effected off-exchange, directly with counterparties. The Company will take a credit risk on the parties with which they trade or with which they engage in securities lending, and therefore the Company acting through the Manager and Investment Adviser will seek to transact only with major established counterparties. The Company will also bear the risk of settlement default by clearing houses and exchanges. Any default will also be subject to the risk of the inability of any counterparty to perform with respect to transactions, whether due to insolvency, bankruptcy or other causes.

Market Liquidity

In some circumstances, investments may be relatively illiquid, sometimes as they are subject to legal or contractual restrictions on their resale and sometimes due to a relatively inactive market. This can make it difficult to acquire or dispose of these investments at the prices quoted on the various exchanges and over-the-counter. At times it may be difficult to obtain price quotes at all. Therefore, the Company may be adversely affected by a decrease in market liquidity for the instruments in which they invest and this may impair the Company's ability to adjust its positions subject to delay and administrative uncertainties and it may experience adverse price movements upon liquidation of its investments. In addition, the sale of such assets often requires more time and results in higher brokerage charges and other selling expenses than does the sale of investments which are eligible for trading on exchange or for which there is an active over-the-counter market. The size of the Company's positions may magnify the effect of a decrease in market liquidity for such instruments.

Market Risk

The market price of an investment owned by the Company may go up or down, sometimes unpredictably. The value of an investment may decline due to general market conditions, such as real or perceived adverse economic conditions or general adverse investment sentiment. Investments may also decline in value due to factors which affect a particular market sector.

Concentration of Investments

The Company will invest all of its assets, to the extent not retained in cash, in accordance with the investment objective and investment policy. Although it will be the policy of the Company to diversify its investment portfolio, the Company may at certain times hold relatively few investments. The Company could be subject to significant losses if it holds a large position in a particular investment that declines in value or is otherwise adversely affected, including default of the issuer. Additionally, historical correlations may undergo dramatic change, thereby reducing expected diversification protections.

Dependence on the Manager

Subject to any delegation properly made of its duties, the Manager shall have ultimate responsibility to make all decisions with respect to the investment and trading activities of the Company. Such delegation of decision making in relation to the investment and trading activities of the Company may be to the Investment Adviser or such other adviser as the Manager may appoint from time to time. Shareholders will not have the opportunity to evaluate fully for themselves the relevant economic, financial and other information regarding the Company's investments. Shareholders will be dependent on the Manager's judgment and abilities. There is no assurance that the Manager will be successful. Accordingly, no person should purchase any Ordinary Shares unless it is willing to entrust all aspects of the trading activities of the Company to the Manager, including such other advisers to whom the Manager may properly delegate its duties.

Profit Sharing

In addition to receiving a Management Fee, the Manager may also receive a Performance Fee based on the appreciation in the Net Asset Value per Ordinary Share and accordingly the Performance Fee will increase with regard to unrealised appreciation, as well as realised gains. Accordingly, a Performance Fee may be paid on unrealised gains which may subsequently never be realised. The Performance Fee may create an incentive for the Manager to make investments for the Company which are riskier than would be the case on the absence of a fee based on the performance of the Company.

Substantial Fees Payable Regardless of Profit and Transaction Costs

The Company will incur obligations to pay brokerage commissions, option premiums and other transactional costs to the brokers. They may also incur obligations to pay a weekly Management Fee to the Manager and pay its operating, legal, accounting, auditing, marketing, travel, Directors' and other fees and expenses including the costs of the offering of the Ordinary Shares. These expenses will be payable regardless of whether the Company makes a profit. In addition, a Performance Fee may be paid to the Manager within fourteen days of the end of each fiscal year. Please see the section headed "Fees and Expenses".

The Company's investment approach may involve a high level of trading and turnover of the Company's investments which may generate substantial transaction costs which will be borne by the Company.

Amortisation of Organisational Costs

The Company's financial statements will be prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS"). IFRS does not permit the amortisation of organisational costs. Notwithstanding this, the Company may, at the discretion of the Directors, amortise its organisational costs over a period of time and, if it does, the financial statements may be qualified in this regard.

Net Asset Value Considerations

The Net Asset Value per Ordinary Share is expected to fluctuate over time with the performance of the Company's investments. A Shareholder may not recover his initial investment when he chooses to redeem his Ordinary Shares or upon compulsory redemption if the Net Asset Value per Ordinary

Share at the time if such redemption is less than the amount he paid on subscription (including any variation due to equalisation) or if there remain any unamortised costs and expenses of establishing the Company.

Price Fluctuations

It should be remembered that the value of the Ordinary Shares and the income (if any) derived from them can go down as well as up.

Illiquidity of Ordinary Shares and Limitations on Transfer

Notwithstanding the application for the listing of the A Class Ordinary Shares and the intended application for listing of C Class Ordinary Shares in the Company, such Ordinary Shares will not be open to trading and it is not expected that any secondary market will develop. In addition, there are limitations on transfers and redemptions of all Ordinary Shares meaning that Ordinary Shares may not be transferred or assigned if the transfer would, in the opinion of the Directors, result in a breach of certain qualification and eligibility criteria as set out in the Bye-laws, including a violation of any applicable securities laws. Further, no transfer of Ordinary Shares may be made if such transfer would in the opinion of the Directors: (i) prejudice the tax status or residence of the Company or any of the Shareholders; (ii) cause the Company or any of its Shareholders to suffer any pecuniary, fiscal or legal or regulatory disadvantage; (iii) cause the Company to require to comply with any registration or filing requirements in any jurisdiction with which it would not otherwise be required to comply; or (iv) cause the aggregate number of US Persons who are beneficial owners of Ordinary Shares to exceed eighty (or such greater number as the Directors may determine, subject to an overall limit of one hundred) or require registration of the Company as an investment company under the 1940 Act. Transfers of Ordinary Shares are subject to the prior execution, by the transferor, of an executed transfer agreement in a form and substance satisfactory to the Company containing representations, warranties and agreements similar to those contained in the subscription agreement and acceptable to the Company. Investment in the Company is therefore relatively illiquid and involves a high degree of risk. Subscription for Ordinary Shares should be considered only by sophisticated investors who are financially able to maintain their investment and can afford to lose all or a substantial part of their investment in the Company.

Limitations on Redemptions

Ordinary Shares may only be redeemed on the Redemption Days by a Shareholder giving notice no later than close of business (Bahrain time) two Business Days prior to the relevant Redemption Day. Further, in exceptional circumstances the Company may suspend redemptions entirely or delay payment until such time as the exceptional circumstances no longer exist. After the Redemption Day, a redeeming Shareholder is a creditor of the Company and if the Company experiences losses at such time, it is possible that it may have insufficient assets to pay all or even some of the redemption proceeds due to the redeeming Shareholder.

Compulsory Redemption

The Company reserves the right to compulsorily redeem some or all of the Ordinary Shares where the Directors consider that certain Shareholder(s) continuing to hold Ordinary Shares would be detrimental to the pecuniary, taxation, material, legal or regulatory interests of the Company or its Shareholders as a whole. Investors should consider the summary of the compulsory redemption provision in the Applications and Redemptions section of this document.

Classes of Ordinary Shares are not Separate Legal Entities

In the unlikely event that the assets attributable to one class of Ordinary Shares were completely depleted by trading losses and a trading deficit remained, a creditor could enforce a claim against the assets of other classes of Ordinary Shares.

Liability and Indemnification of Service Providers

The Company, Manager, Investment Adviser, Administrator, Global Custodian and Registrar will not be liable to the Company under certain circumstances. Please see the section headed "Material Contracts".

Custodial Risk

The assets of the Company will generally be held by the Custodian directly or through its agents, sub-custodians, or delegates pursuant to the Custody Agreement. The Custodian may, on the instructions of the Directors, open accounts with any bank or financial institution (including any bank or financial institution which is not a member of the HSBC Group as defined under "Custody" in the section headed "Management and Administration") and instruct the Custodian to place the cash of the Company in such accounts. The Custodian shall control, operate and monitor the bank accounts periodically but will not be responsible or liable to any person whatsoever (including the Directors) in respect of any loss of the cash, securities and/or other assets comprising the assets of the Company held in such accounts or not deposited with or held to the Custodian's order, occasioned by reason of the liquidation, bankruptcy or insolvency of such bank, financial institutions or other persons.

The Custodian may also, on the instructions of the Directors, leave shares in trading accounts in various stock exchanges/depositories for the purchase and sale of investments in the name of the Company where the shares are credited into the trading account. The Custodian shall monitor and reconcile timely and promptly the level of investments held in such trading accounts. However, the Custodian will not be responsible for the loss suffered by the Company for shares held in these trading accounts.

Lack of Investment Shareholder Participation

Shareholders will not have any right or power to take part in the management of the Company, other than in accordance with the Company's Bye-laws, as amended from time to time.

Competition

The investment industry is extremely competitive. In pursuing its investment objectives and policy, the Company will compete with commodities and securities firms, including many of the larger investment advisory and private investment firms and also institutional investors and, in some circumstances, market makers, banks and broker-dealers. In relative terms, the Company may have little capital and may have difficulty in competing in markets in which its competitors have substantially greater financial resources, larger research staff and more investment professionals than the Company has or expects to have in the future. In any given transaction, investment and trading activity by other firms will tend to narrow the spread between the price at which an asset may be purchased by the Company and the price it expects to receive upon consummation of the transaction.

Lack of U.S. Regulatory Oversight

The Company will seek to qualify for an exemption from the definition of "investment company" under the 1940 Act and will not register as an investment company in the United States under the 1940 Act. Accordingly, the Company will not be subject to the various statutory and SEC regulatory requirements applicable to registered investment companies. For example, the Company is not required to maintain custody of its securities or place its securities in the custody of a bank or a member of a U.S. securities exchange in the manner. Although neither the Manager nor the Investment Adviser is currently registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") as an investment adviser pursuant to the U.S. Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended (the "Advisers Act"), each of the Manager and/or the Investment Adviser may do so in the future. The Investment Adviser has elected to be treated as an “exempt reporting adviser” with the SEC. As a result, the Investment Adviser will be subject to certain reporting requirements, recordkeeping and other obligations as determined from time to time by the SEC. The Investment Adviser and/or the Manager may also be subject to SEC inspections..

Withholding Tax Considerations

Where the Company invests in securities that are not subject to withholding tax at the time of the acquisition, there can be no assurance that tax may not be withheld in the future as a result of any change in applicable laws, treaties, rules or regulations or the interpretation thereof. The Company will not be able to recover such withheld tax and so any change would have an adverse effect on the Net Asset Value of the Ordinary Shares. Where the Company sells securities short that are subject to withholding tax at the time of sale, the price obtained will reflect the withholding tax liability of the purchaser. In the event that in the future such securities cease to be subject to withholding tax, the benefit thereof will accrue to the purchaser and not to the Company.

US Tax Status

The Company has not requested a ruling from the United States Internal Revenue Service (“IRS”) or an opinion of legal counsel as to any tax matters, including whether the Company will be treated as a partnership (and not as an association taxable as a corporation) for US federal income tax purposes. Potential investors who are US taxpayers should be aware that the Company made an election, effective 1 September 2009, to be treated as a partnership for US federal income tax purposes and expects to be so treated for US federal income tax purposes. As a result of such election, a US Shareholder (as defined herein) of Ordinary Shares as of the effective date of the election will be taxed annually on its allocable portion of the Company's net realised profits and income, whether or not such amount is distributed to, or redeemed by, the US Shareholder. Because the Company will not make regular cash distributions to Shareholders, a Shareholder may be subject to taxes on income allocated to it but which they have not received. Furthermore, special tax rules apply to certain categories of Shareholders, including Individual Retirement Accounts and other tax-exempt Shareholders. Prior to the election, the Company was treated as a corporation and as a “passive foreign investment company” for US federal income tax purposes. Furthermore, if the election was not effective, the Company would still be treated as a corporation rather than as a partnership for US federal income tax purposes, the Company itself would be taxed on its taxable income at corporate tax rates, there would be no flow-through of items of Company income, gain, loss or deductions to the Shareholders, and Company distributions generally would be taxable as dividends.

Benefit Plan Regulatory Risks

The Directors intend to limit investment by “benefit plan investors” (as described under “ERISA and Other Benefit Plan Considerations”) so that the assets of the Company will not constitute the “plan assets” of a Shareholder which is subject to the fiduciary responsibility provisions of Title I of ERISA or to Section 4975 of the Code. Accordingly, the Directors do not anticipate that the Company, the Directors, the Manager, the Investment Adviser or the Investment Committee will be subject to the fiduciary and other requirements of ERISA, the prohibited transaction rules of ERISA or the Code, or any related requirements with respect to any benefit plan investor. However, if the Company were at any point treated as holding “plan assets” for purposes of ERISA or the Code, the activities of the Company would become subject to the fiduciary responsibility provisions of ERISA and the prohibited transaction provisions of ERISA and the Code, and the operations and investments of the Company may be limited as a result, resulting in a lower return to the Company than might otherwise be the case. Further, in the absence of compliance with ERISA and the prohibited transaction rules of the Code, the Directors, the Manager, the Investment

Adviser or the Investment Committee could be exposed to litigation, penalties and liabilities which might adversely affect their ability to fully satisfy their obligations to the Company.

Regulatory Risks for Investment Funds

The regulatory environment for investment funds is evolving and changes therein may adversely affect the ability of the Company to obtain the leverage it might otherwise obtain or to pursue its investment strategies. In addition, the regulatory or tax environment for derivative and related instruments is evolving and may be subject to modification by government or judicial action which may adversely affect the value of the investments held by the Company. The effect of any future regulatory or tax change in the Company is impossible to predict.

The legislative framework in some markets where the Company may invest is only beginning to develop the concept of legal/formal ownership and of beneficial ownership or interest in debt instruments. Consequently, the courts in such markets may consider that any nominee or custodian as registered holder of securities would have full ownership thereof and that a beneficial owner may have no rights whatsoever in respect thereof.

Verification and Authenticity

There may be particular difficulties in establishing the authenticity and verifying the ownership and the validity of debt instruments or participatory notes settled in the Middle East and North African region into which the Company may invest.

THE FOREGOING RISK FACTORS DO NOT PURPORT TO BE A COMPLETE EXPLANATION OF ALL THE RISKS INVOLVED IN THE OFFERING OF SHARES. POTENTIAL INVESTORS SHOULD READ THIS DOCUMENT, THE BYE-LAWS OF THE COMPANY AND THE MATERIAL CONTRACTS IN THEIR ENTIRETY BEFORE DECIDING WHETHER OR NOT TO SUBSCRIBE FOR SHARES.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

The attention of existing and potential investors is drawn to the "Risk Factors" section of this document.

Investment in the Company will involve certain risks and special considerations. Existing and potential investors should be able and willing to withstand the loss of their entire investment. The investments of the Company are subject to normal market fluctuations and the risks inherent in all investments and there can be no assurance that an investment will retain its value or that appreciation will occur. The price of Ordinary Shares and the income from such Ordinary Shares can go down as well as up and Shareholders may not realise the value of their initial investment.

Forward-Looking Statements

This document includes statements that are, or may be deemed to be, "forward-looking statements". These forward-looking statements can be identified by the use of forward-looking terminology, including the terms "believes", "estimates", "anticipates", "expects", "intends", "may", "will" or "should" or, in each case, their negative or other variations or comparable terminology. These forward-looking statements include all matters that are not historical facts. They appear in a number of places throughout this document and include statements regarding the intentions, beliefs or current expectations of the Company concerning, amongst other things, the investment objectives and investment policy, financing strategies, investment performance, results of operations, financial condition, liquidity, prospects, and dividend policy of the Company and the markets in which it, and its portfolio of investments invest and, where applicable, issue securities. By their nature, forward-looking statements involve risks and uncertainties because they relate to events and depend on circumstances that may or may not occur in the future. Forward-looking statements are not guarantees of future performance. The Company's actual investment performance, results of operations, financial condition, liquidity, dividend policy and the development of its financing strategies may differ materially from the impression created by the forward looking statements contained in this document. In addition, even if the investment performance, results of operations, financial condition and liquidity of the Company, and the development of its financing strategies, are consistent with the forward-looking statements contained in this document, those results or developments may not be indicative of results or developments in subsequent periods. Important factors that could cause these differences include, but are not limited to:

- (a) the risk factors set out in the section headed "Risk Factors" in this document;
- (b) changes in economic conditions generally and the Company's ability to achieve its investment objective and returns on equity for investors;
- (c) changes in the Company's business strategy and the audited financial history of the Company not being indicative of its future performance;
- (d) the Company's ability to invest the cash on its balance sheet and the proceeds of the issue of Ordinary Shares in suitable investments on a timely basis;
- (e) changes in interest rates and/or credit spreads, as well as the success of the Company's investment strategy in relation to such changes and the management of the uninvested proceeds of any issue of Ordinary Shares;
- (f) impairments in the value of the Company's investments;
- (g) the availability and cost of capital for future investments;
- (h) competition within the industries in which the Company seeks to invest;
- (i) the departure of key members employed by the Manager;
- (j) the termination of, or failure of the Manager to perform its obligations under the Management Agreement with the Company;
- (k) the termination of, or failure of the Investment Adviser to perform its obligations under the Investment Advisory Agreement;

- (l) changes in laws or regulations, including tax laws, or new interpretations or applications of laws and regulations, that are applicable to the Company's business or companies in which the Company makes investments; and
- (m) general economic trends and other external factors, including those resulting from war, incidents of terrorism or responses to such events.

Given these uncertainties, prospective investors are cautioned not to place any undue reliance on such forward-looking statements. These forward-looking statements speak only as at the date of this document.

Although the Company and the Manager undertake no obligation to revise or update any forward-looking statements contained herein (save where required by any local law or regulation, as the case may be), whether as a result of new information, future events, conditions or circumstances, any change in the Company's or the Manager's expectations with regard thereto or otherwise, Shareholders are advised to consult any communications made directly to them by the Company and/or any additional disclosures through announcements that the Company may make through a regulatory information service or equivalent news service.

INFORMATION ON THE COMPANY

Company Overview

The Company was incorporated in Bermuda on 30 June 1998, as an exempted mutual fund company with limited liability and of unlimited duration. The Company invests in a managed portfolio consisting principally of listed equity securities of companies established or operating in the Middle East and North Africa. EFG-Hermes Financial Management (Egypt) Limited has been appointed as Manager to the Company and is able to draw on the expertise and experience of the rest of the EFG-Hermes Group. EFG-Hermes UAE Limited has been appointed as Investment Adviser to the Company. HSBC Bank Middle East Limited has been appointed as the Company's Global Custodian. HSBC Securities Services (Bermuda) Limited acts as the Company's Registrar, Secretary and Administrator (in which capacity, it calculates the Net Asset Value).

Investment Objective

The investment objective of the Company is to achieve long term capital appreciation through investment in Middle Eastern and North African equities and equity related securities. The Directors believe that the Middle East and North Africa offer attractive and varied investment opportunities which provides the Company with the opportunity of investing in a diverse range of countries and companies. In particular, the Manager targets a wide range of high growth or undervalued companies that are either listed or are seeking to be listed on local exchanges.

The Company's portfolio of investments consists primarily of listed equity securities of companies established or operating in the Middle East and certain developing countries in Africa. The Company may invest and hold assets totalling up to 25 percent of its total Net Asset Value in unlisted companies from the Middle East and North Africa.

The assets of the Company are managed in accordance with the Company's investment policy, as described herein, with a view to achieving the investment objective referred to above.

Ordinary Share Issue

Prior to being listed on the DFM, the A Class Ordinary Shares were listed on the Irish Stock Exchange. The A Class Ordinary Shares were delisted from the Irish Stock Exchange in February 2003 and listed on the DFM on 8 February 2003. The Ordinary Shares are issued in registered form and will, unless otherwise provided for in the Bye-laws of the Company, rank pari passu for all dividends and other distributions hereafter declared, paid or made on the Ordinary Shares. The Ordinary Shares are redeemable at the option of holders on any of the weekly Redemption Days (subject to the restrictions and limitations referred to in the Applications and Redemptions section below).

The Company may, at the discretion of the Directors and the Manager, make an application to list the C Class Ordinary Shares on the DFM. There is no guarantee that such application will be made and investors should not rely on such an application being made.

Ordinary Shares may be issued on a weekly basis as of any Valuation Day at prices calculated by reference to the Net Asset Value per Ordinary Share of the relevant class as at the relevant Valuation Day as described in the Applications and Redemptions section plus a discretionary Front End Charge of up to 2 percent in the case of A Class Ordinary Shares of the total Subscription Price. The Directors also have the right to issue further Ordinary Shares pursuant to the Dividend Reinvestment Plan described in the Distribution Policy section below.

INVESTMENT POLICY

Investment Objective and Policy

The Company's investment objective is to achieve long term capital appreciation. The Company seeks to achieve this by investing in equity and equity-related securities in existing stock markets in the Middle East and North Africa. Additionally up to 25 percent of the portfolio may be invested in unlisted companies in these regions and in countries where it is expected capital markets may open to overseas investment in due course, whether or not the country has an existing stock exchange. Currently the Company's investment portfolio is not invested in shares of unlisted companies. The unlisted companies that the Company targets are those that the Company expects to be quoted on an exchange within twelve to eighteen months of the initial investment. No assurance can be given that the Company's investment objective will be achieved.

Investment Markets and Strategy

The stock markets of the Gulf Cooperation Council, North Africa, Jordan, Lebanon and Palestine are, amongst others, targeted for investment. Although the markets of the Middle East and North African region will form a major part of the portfolio, up to 5 percent of the portfolio may be invested in collective investment funds in the Middle East and North Africa.

The Company seeks investment opportunities in countries that are actively developing their capital markets in anticipation of attracting higher levels of foreign investment. The markets in this category include Algeria, Libya, Yemen, Syria and Sudan (subject always to the condition that not more than 10 percent of the Company's NAV may be invested in Libya, Yemen, Syria and Sudan).

The portfolio is driven by stock selection with the intention of maximising returns on an absolute return basis. The Manager is not constrained by market capitalisation or GDP (gross domestic product) weighted indices, as it believes these constraints to be inherently inefficient in a developing region. The Manager seeks returns on a total return dollar basis and will continually make an assessment of country and exchange risk. It is envisaged that the portfolio will comprise of between 30 and 40 individual company investments at any one time although there is no requirement that the Company remain within this range.

Investment Rationale

The Directors believe that the capital markets of the Middle East and North Africa are at an early stage of development and will continue to grow. Many governments across this area are increasingly opting to grant access to long term direct and portfolio investment. This trend is being encouraged through the pursuit of more rigorous economic policies which promote stability and growth. Private sector companies are seeking to expand by tapping into local savings networks through stock exchange listings. Private sector growth is being actively cultivated in order to diversify the economic base of many countries away from commodity production and international exports. Many companies are simply too small to seek listings on international exchanges and are therefore accessible only to those investors who have an understanding of local conditions.

Investment Restrictions

Investment of the Company's assets is subject to certain restrictions determined from time to time by the Directors. The Directors have adopted the following restrictions, providing that the Company will not:

- (a) make any investment which could expose the Company to unlimited liability;
- (b) make investments in other collective investment schemes which in total comprise more than 5 percent of the Company's NAV;

- (c) invest in securities which are not quoted or listed on any regulated stock exchanges or over-the-counter markets ("unlisted securities") if, as a result, more than 25 percent of the Net Asset Value of the portfolios of the Company would then be invested in unlisted securities;
- (d) make investments in Libya, Yemen, Syria and Sudan which in total comprise more than 10 percent of the Company's NAV;
- (e) purchase or otherwise acquire any security if, as a result, more than 10 percent of the Net Asset Value attributable to a class of Ordinary Shares would then be invested in securities of a single issuer or group or expose more than 10 percent of the total Net Asset Value of the Company to the creditworthiness or solvency of any one counterparty;
- (f) buy or sell commodities, commodity futures contracts or real estate except that:
 - (i) it may purchase and sell securities which are secured by real estate or commodities and securities of companies which invest or deal in real estate or commodities; and
 - (ii) for efficient portfolio management purposes it may enter into foreign currency and stock index futures and options, and may buy or sell forward currency contracts;
- (g) make any investment which results in a class of Ordinary Shares or the portfolio of investments attributable to a class of Ordinary Shares, obtaining or exercising legal or management control over the issuers of underlying investments (save that the Company may establish wholly-owned subsidiaries for the purposes of making investments if the Directors consider it would be in the best interest of the Company to do so in which case these investment restrictions will apply as if investments made by such a subsidiary had been made directly by the Company).

Restriction (e) shall not apply to investments in securities issued or guaranteed by a government, government agency or instrumentality of any European Union or OECD member state or by any supranational authority of which one or more European Union or OECD member states are members.

Other than restriction (e) none of these restrictions require the realisation of any assets of the Company where any of such restrictions is breached as a result of any event outside the control of the Company occurring after the relevant investment was made or upon any exercise of conversion rights attached to any investments held by the Company, but no further such investments may be acquired for the account of the Company until the relevant restriction is again complied with and regard shall be had to such limits when contemplating changes to the Company's investments. Warrants held by the Company may not be exercised if to do so would result in a breach of any of the restrictions referred to above.

Subject to the overall investment policy of the Company and the investment restrictions referred to above, in addition to securities issued by companies, investments held by the Company may take the form of limited partnership arrangements, participations, joint ventures and other forms of non-corporate investment.

Borrowing

The Company does not borrow except for short-term or temporary purposes in aggregate amounts not exceeding 15 percent of the Net Asset Value save that the Company may exceed this limit by short term borrowing for the purposes of meeting redemption requests and/or paying fees and expenses provided that the total borrowings made on behalf of the Company are restricted to 25 percent of the Net Asset Value. For these purposes, short term or temporary borrowings are those with a term of six months or less, for ongoing investment purposes.

Hedging Restrictions

There are no restrictions on hedging investments under Bermuda law. The Company has no set policy on the hedging of investments held in its investment portfolio(s), but may at the discretion of the Manager use hedging as one of several tools to increase returns and profitability of the Company. Potential investors and current Shareholders should be aware that increased levels of hedging can make valuation of the Company's investments difficult. The Company shall limit the hedging of its investments to not more than 20 percent of the total investments held by the Company at any time.

Redemption proceeds will only be transferred to the investor's nominated bank account after the receipt of original documents.

Ordinary Shares are redeemed at prices calculated by reference to the Net Asset Value per Ordinary Share calculated as at the relevant Redemption Day, as described below. The Directors or the Manager, may at their discretion, accept late redemption requests received at any time after the Dealing Cut-off but prior to the Valuation Point of each Valuation Day provided the Manager advises the Administrator before the Valuation Point of the receipt of requests for each respective Redemption Day.

If the Company receives net redemption requests (that is, redemption requests less valid applications received for new Ordinary Shares in respect of the same Redemption Day) in respect of an aggregate of 10 percent or more of the outstanding Ordinary Shares on any Redemption Day, the Directors or the Manager may elect to restrict the total net number of Ordinary Shares redeemed pursuant to such requests to 10 percent (or such higher percentage as the Directors may determine) in which case all such redemption requests will be scaled down pro rata to the size of the request. If any redemption requests are not satisfied in full in any such case the balance of all such redemption requests will be carried forward to the next Redemption Day, subject to the same 10 percent restriction. Such redemption requests carried forward will be given priority over subsequent redemption requests.

Remittance of redemption amounts will be made in Ordinary Shares or in US Dollars by inter-bank transfer as soon as is reasonably practicable following the Redemption Day concerned and generally within five Business Days from the relevant Redemption Day, except that no redemption proceeds will be paid out until the Registrar is in receipt of any applicable Ordinary Share certificate(s) and written confirmation of any telexed or faxed redemption request. The Company will not pay redemption proceeds to any third party.

In keeping with applicable anti-money laundering regulations, additional documentation may be required to accompany the subscription for Ordinary Shares. This documentation will be used to comply with these regulations and to verify the identity of investors, and will remain confidential.

The Company, Administrator and Registrar reserve the right to request further documentation or information from the investor as is required by relevant Know Your Customer regulations and other requirements of the Central Bank of Bahrain which are in force at the time. Failure to provide such documentation will result in the rejection of the subscription and/or payment of redemption proceeds.

Calculation of Net Asset Value and Subscription and Redemption Prices

The Net Asset Value per Ordinary Share and Subscription and Redemption Prices are calculated by the Administrator in US Dollars weekly as of the close of business (Bahrain time) on each Valuation Day. The Net Asset Value calculated as of each Valuation Day forms the basis for determining Subscription and Redemption Prices. Details of Subscription and Redemption Prices of Ordinary Shares and the Net Asset Values for Ordinary Shares are published by the DFM and are available on request from the Manager. Once calculated, the Net Asset Value per Ordinary Share shall be notified to the DFM without delay by the Manager. In addition Shareholders will be sent a monthly statement of their holdings.

The Net Asset Value of the Company will be determined by subtracting the liabilities of the Company (including, without limitation, its accrued expenses (including any accrued Management Fee and/or Performance Fee) and such amount in respect of contingent or projected expenses as the Directors consider fair and reasonable from the value of the Company's assets (including without limitation, any unamortised expenses).

The assets of the Company are valued in accordance with the directions from time to time of the Directors. Listed investments are valued on the basis of closing prices (or, if there is no closing price, the last available closing bid price) as derived or reported by Reuters or any other reporting or information system in common use. Unlisted securities and quoted securities for which a price is unavailable are valued on such basis as may be determined by the Directors or the Manager. Liabilities and deposits are valued with accrued interest or at market prices as appropriate. If the Directors consider that any of the above valuation rules do not give rise to a fair value or if they consider by reason of market illiquidity, repatriation restrictions or otherwise, the Company could not reasonably be expected to realise an investment at such value, they may adopt or approve such other valuations as they consider fair in the circumstances.

The Net Asset Value per Ordinary Share of a particular class as of any Valuation Day is calculated by attributing such proportion of the Net Asset Value of the Company to Shareholders of that class as provided in the Bye-laws and dividing such sum by the number of Ordinary Shares of that class (should such shares be in issue) (including any Ordinary Shares to be redeemed). Please refer to the section headed "Fees and Expenses" for further information on the fees payable in respect of each class of Ordinary Shares.

In calculating the Net Asset Value of the Company and Net Asset Value per Ordinary Share, the Administrator will not be liable or otherwise responsible for any loss suffered by the Company or any other person by reason of any inaccuracy, error or delay in any pricing information provided by automatic pricing services or other service providers, brokers, market makers or intermediaries used by the Administrator in providing its services, or by the manager, administrator or valuation agent of any collective investment scheme into which the Company invests. The Administrator will not be liable or otherwise responsible for any loss suffered by the Company or any other person by reason of any inaccuracy, error or delay in information provided to the Administrator by or for the Company or any person associated with the Company (including any broker, market maker or intermediary or any third party service provider that the Company has required the Administrator to use).

In circumstances where the Administrator is directed by the Directors or the Manager to use particular determinations of fair prices, particular pricing services, the Administrator shall not be liable for any loss suffered by the Company or any other person by reason of error in the calculation of the Net Asset Value of the Company and / or Net Asset Value per Ordinary Share resulting from any inaccuracy in such fair prices or the information provided by such pricing services.

For the avoidance of doubt, the Administrator is not responsible for the valuation or pricing of any investments of the Company, or the validation of such valuations or pricing information, and will rely solely upon any valuations or pricing information provided to it by the Company or any valuer, third party valuation agent or other third party which in each such case is appointed or authorised by the Company to provide valuations or pricing information of the Company's investments to the Administrator. The Administrator shall have no responsibility or liability for such valuations or pricing information, relying on such valuations or pricing information or not validating such valuations or pricing information.

Subscription and Redemption Prices will be calculated as follows:

Subscription Prices

The Subscription Price per A Class Ordinary Share under the Initial Offer was US$10.20 (inclusive of the front end charge of US$0.20 per A Class Ordinary Share payable to the Placing Agent through whom the relevant A Class Ordinary Share was placed). The front end charge of US$0.20 per A Class Ordinary Share relates to the Initial Offer and is provided in this document for historical and informational purposes only.

The Subscription Price per A Class Ordinary Share for each Valuation Day following the Initial Offer shall equal:

- (i) the Net Asset Value per Ordinary Share as at the relevant Valuation Day; plus
- (ii) a Front End Charge of up to 2 percent of the Subscription Price, such amount to be payable to the Placing Agent through whom the relevant A Class Ordinary Share was placed.

The Subscription Price per C Class Ordinary Share for each Valuation Day following the Initial Offer shall equal the Net Asset Value per C Class Ordinary Share as at each respective Valuation Day.

All prices are rounded to the nearest US$0.01, with US$0.005 being rounded up.

Redemption Prices

The Redemption Price per Ordinary Share on any Redemption Day shall equal the Net Asset Value per Ordinary Share of the relevant class as at the relevant Redemption Day.

Suspension of Dealings

The Directors may (but shall not be obliged to) declare a temporary suspension of the determination of the Net Asset Value and Subscription Prices and Redemption Prices in respect of any Valuation Day:

- (a) when one or more exchanges or other regulated markets which provide the basis for valuing a significant portion of assets of the Company are closed other than for or during holidays or if dealings therein are restricted or suspended or where trading is restricted or suspended in respect of securities forming a material part of the Company's assets;

- (b) when, as a result of political, economic, military or monetary events or any circumstances outside the control, responsibility and power of the Company, including (without limitation) delays in settlement or registration of securities transactions, the disposal of assets of the Company is not reasonably practicable without materially and adversely affecting and prejudicing the interests of continuing Shareholders, or if, in the opinion of the Directors, a fair price cannot be calculated for the assets of the Company;
- (c) in the case of a breakdown of the means normally used for calculating the Net Asset Value or valuing a significant portion of investment of the Company or if for any reason the value of any asset or assets of the Company which is material in relation to Net Asset Value (as to which the Directors shall have sole discretion) may not be determined as rapidly and accurately as required; or
- (d) if, as a result of foreign exchange restrictions or other restrictions affecting the transfer of funds, transactions on behalf of the Company are rendered impracticable, or if purchases, sales, deposits and withdrawals of the assets of the Company cannot be effected at the normal rates.

If there is a suspension of the determination of the Net Asset Value then the issue of Ordinary Shares on such Valuation Day is suspended and the redemption of Ordinary Shares is suspended and all subscription applications and redemption requests are carried forward to the first Valuation Day on which the determination of Net Asset Value shall resume. Any suspension lasting for more than seven Business Days shall be notified to Shareholders and all suspensions shall be notified to the DFM without delay. An applicant for Ordinary Shares or a redeeming Shareholder may withdraw any subscription application or redemption request (as the case may be) at any time while the calculation of Net Asset Value is suspended. If the notice is not so withdrawn, the redemption request will be dealt with on the first Valuation Day following termination of such suspension. Where possible all reasonable steps will be taken to bring any period of suspension to an end as soon as practicable.

Compulsory Redemption

By giving any Shareholder not less than seven Business Days' written notice prior to any Valuation Day, the Company may require that a Shareholder redeem the whole or a specified percentage of his shareholding if the Directors consider that such Shareholder continuing to hold Ordinary Shares would be detrimental to the pecuniary, taxation, material, legal or regulatory interests of the Company or its Shareholders as a whole. Without prejudice to the foregoing, the Company will seek to ensure that it does not become subject to the provisions of the 1940 Act and, to this end, will seek to restrict the number of US Shareholders to approximately eighty. The Company may exercise its right of compulsory redemption with respect to any US Person acquiring Ordinary Shares in order to so restrict the number of US Shareholders or to prevent the Company from being required to register under the 1940 Act. In order to give effect to the foregoing, the Company may request such declarations and information from Shareholders and potential Shareholders as the Directors may consider appropriate and the Ordinary Shares of holders failing to supply any such declarations or information may also be compulsorily redeemed. It should be appreciated, however, that it may not always be possible for the Company to ascertain whether or not a particular Ordinary Share is beneficially held by a US Person.

In addition, the Company may, in its absolute discretion, compulsorily redeem all outstanding Ordinary Shares if the Net Asset Value falls below US$10,000,000.

Placing Arrangements

The Company may accept subscriptions for Ordinary Shares through Placing Agents, engaged from time to time by the Manager on behalf of the Company, for the purpose of placing Ordinary Shares in the Company with current Shareholders and new investors.

Subject to the discretion of the Manager, where Ordinary Shares are placed by a Placing Agent, investors will be issued A Class Ordinary Shares, which will be subject to the fees and expenses as detailed more fully under the section in this document headed "Fees and Expenses".

Subject to the discretion of the Manager, where an investor subscribes for Ordinary Shares in the Company, in circumstances other than being placed by a Placing Agent, Shareholders will be issued C Class Ordinary Shares, which will be subject to the fees and expenses as detailed more fully under the section in this document headed "Fees and Expenses".

DISTRIBUTION POLICY

Distribution Policy

Dividends, interest and other income received by the Company are to be applied first in the payment of fees and expenses. The Directors intend that any net income after payment of such fees and expenses (and less such amount as the Directors consider appropriate in respect of any projected or contingent fees and expenses) is distributed to Shareholders. No dividends are paid out of capital or out of unrealised or realised capital gains.

Dividend Reinvestment Plan

Unless and until the Company otherwise determines, each dividend declared in respect of Ordinary Shares may, at the election of each Shareholder, be paid in cash or reinvested in additional Ordinary Shares at the Subscription Price per Ordinary Share as of the Valuation Day immediately following the issue of the dividend. An election to receive dividends in cash or to have such dividends automatically reinvested in Ordinary Shares is made at the time Ordinary Shares are initially applied for and may be changed seven Business Days prior to the relevant payment date in respect of the dividend. No Front End Charge shall be levied in connection with the reinvestment of dividends. A Shareholder who has elected to reinvest a dividend will be sent a written confirmation of the reinvestment and, if applicable, a share certificate.

FEES AND EXPENSES

Manager

In relation to A Class Ordinary Shares which are currently in issue or which may be issued from the date of this document, the Manager is entitled to receive from the Company a management fee accruing weekly at the annual rate of 1.4 percent of the Net Asset Value (the "Management Fee") (calculated for these purposes prior to deduction of this Management Fee) attributable to A Class Ordinary Shares on each Valuation Day and payable quarterly in arrear.

A Class Ordinary Shares which may be issued by the Company from the date of this document shall be subject, at the discretion of the Manager, to a Front End Charge.

In relation to C Class Ordinary Shares which may be issued from the date of this document, the Manager is entitled to receive from the Company the Management Fee accruing weekly at the annual rate of 1.4 percent and a distribution fee accruing weekly at an annual rate of 1 percent of the Net Asset Value (the "Distribution Fee") (the Management Fee and Distribution Fee being calculated for these purposes prior to the deduction of these fees) attributable to C Class Ordinary Shares on each Valuation Day and payable quarterly in arrear.

In addition, the Manager is entitled to receive from the Company, in respect of each Ordinary Share in issue/outstanding, a Performance Fee of 15 percent of any out-performance of each Ordinary Share (in terms of movements in the Net Asset Value and dividends paid in respect of such Ordinary Shares) in excess of a fixed hurdle rate for returns of 10 percent (the "Performance Fee"). Currently, the Performance Fee is calculated annually, and is payable within fourteen days following the last Valuation Day in June of each year (save that, in respect of any Ordinary Share redeemed during the course of the year, such fee shall accrue on the Valuation Day on which such Ordinary Share is redeemed). Currently the Performance Fee is calculated as a percentage of NAV as at 30 June of each year for the preceding financial year such that a different Performance Fee will be charged for each of the Valuation Days. However, as of 1 July 2008, the Performance Fee will be calculated by determining the rise in NAV between the first Valuation Day of a fiscal year and the last Valuation Day of that fiscal year. To the extent that the rise in NAV exceeds a fixed hurdle rate of 10 percent, the Company shall be entitled to 15 percent of such rise over the 10 percent hurdle rate (save that, in respect of any Ordinary Share redeemed during the course of the year, such fee shall be realised on the Valuation Day on which such Ordinary Share is redeemed).

Finally, the Manager is also entitled to be reimbursed all reasonable out-of-pocket and third party expenses incurred in the performance of its duties. The Manager is entitled to waive or rebate any part of its Performance Fee or annual management fee or rebate an amount in respect of subscriptions of Ordinary Shares to persons who assist in the placing of Ordinary Shares or persons who subscribe for Ordinary Shares (whether as principal or agent).

Global Custodian, Administrator, Registrar and Secretary

The Global Custodian of the Company is HSBC Middle East Limited and the Administrator, Registrar and Secretary of the Company is HSBC Securities Services (Bermuda) Limited. The HSBC Group is entitled to receive from the Company fees, calculated in accordance with the table below, for the provision of administration services, investor services and custodian services to the Company (the "Global Custody Fee").

The Global Custody Fee shall be calculated in accordance with the table below:

Fee description	Fee scale
For the provision of:
Inception Fee	US$10,000
Global Custodian services (inclusive of an annual service fee)	Up to 22.5 basis points of NAV per annum (Subject to a monthly minimum of US$20,000)

Resident Representative fee	US$3,500 per annum

Directors

The Company will be responsible for the payment of the Directors' travel and accommodation expenses only (the "Directors' Fees"). The aggregate of Directors' Fees was US$37,500 in 2000, US$30,000 in 2001 and no Directors' Fees were paid in 2002. No Directors' Fees have been paid to executive directors since 2002. However, with effect from April 2009, each of the non-executive Directors have been entitled to an annual fee of US$25,000. The Company is responsible for all brokerage and commissions and other dealing costs, stamp duties, taxes, foreign exchange costs, bank charges, registration fees relating to investments, insurance and security costs, any out of pocket expenses of the Directors, and all fees and out of pocket expenses of the Auditor, Registrar, Administrator, Global Custodian and legal and certain other expenses incurred in the administration of the Company and in the acquisition, holding and disposal of investments. The Company is also responsible for the costs of preparing, printing and distributing all valuations, statements, accounts and reports. The expenses of preparing and publishing the Net Asset Value and all Subscription Prices and Redemption Prices are also borne by the Company.

All fees and expenses incurred in connection with the establishment of the Company, and the Initial Offer and all costs incurred in connection with obtaining a listing of the A Class Ordinary Shares on the Irish Stock Exchange, and all legal costs and all out of pocket expenses were borne by the Company and were amortised over the Company's first five financial years. The total fees and expenses associated with the Initial Offer and listing of the A Class Ordinary Shares on the Irish

Stock Exchange amounted to approximately US$200,000. The total fees and expenses associated with the listing of the Company on the DFM amounted to US$994. The ongoing cost of maintaining the listing of a class of shares on the DFM is currently US$817 per annum.

The Company may decide to list the C Class Ordinary Shares on the DFM. There is currently no fee levied for the listing of an additional class of shares on the DFM.

TAXATION

General

The taxation of income and capital gains of the Company and the Shareholders is subject to the fiscal law and practice of Bermuda, and any other jurisdiction in which the Company invests and of the jurisdictions in which Shareholders are resident or otherwise subject to tax. The following summary of the anticipated tax treatment in certain jurisdictions does not constitute legal or tax advice and is based on the taxation law and published practice in force at the date of this document. The summary applies only to persons holding Ordinary Shares as an investment.

This summary does not consider all aspects of taxation which may be relevant to a particular Shareholder in the light of their particular circumstances (for example, tax consequences in the Shareholder's jurisdiction of residence). Investors should consult their own advisers on the taxation and exchange controls implications of their acquiring, holding or disposing of Ordinary Shares under the laws of any jurisdictions in which they are or may be liable to taxation.

While this summary is considered to be a correct interpretation of existing laws and practice in force on the date of this document, no assurance can be given that courts or other authorities responsible for the administration of such laws will agree with this interpretation or that changes in such laws or practice will not occur.

Bermuda

At the date of this document, there is no Bermuda income, corporation or profits tax, withholding tax, capital gains tax, capital transfer tax, estate duty or inheritance tax payable by the Company or Shareholders, other than Shareholders ordinarily resident in Bermuda. Neither the Company nor Shareholders will be subject to stamp duty on the issue, transfer or redemption of Ordinary Shares.

The Company has obtained from the Minister of Finance of Bermuda under the Exempted Undertakings Tax Protection Act 1966 an assurance that, in the event of there being enacted in Bermuda any legislation imposing tax computed on profits or income, or computed on any capital assets, gains or appreciation of any tax in the nature of estate duty or inheritance tax, such tax shall not, until 28 March 2016, be applicable to the Company or to any persons ordinarily resident in Bermuda and holding such Ordinary Shares, debentures or other obligations of the Company.

As an exempted mutual fund company, the Company is liable to pay in Bermuda an annual registration fee, which, based upon its current authorised share capital, will be US$6,275 at the current rate or such other amount as may be determined by the relevant Bermudan authorities from time to time.

United Kingdom

The following is a summary of various aspects of the United Kingdom taxation regime which may apply to United Kingdom resident or ordinarily resident persons acquiring Ordinary Shares in the Company, and where such persons are individuals only to those domiciled in the United Kingdom. It is intended as a general summary only, based on current tax law and published practice in force as of the date of this document. Such law and practice may be subject to change, and the below summary is not exhaustive. Further, it will apply only to those United Kingdom Shareholders holding Ordinary Shares as an investment rather than those which hold Ordinary Shares as part of a financial trade; and does not cover United Kingdom Shareholders which are tax exempt or subject to special taxation regimes.

The Company

The Directors intend to conduct the affairs of the Company in such a manner as to minimise, so far as they consider reasonably practicable, taxation of the Company. This will include conducting the affairs of the Company so that it does not become resident in the United Kingdom for United Kingdom tax purposes.

Accordingly, and provided that the Company does not carry on a trade in the United Kingdom (whether or not through a branch or agency situated therein that constitutes a permanent establishment for United Kingdom taxation purposes), the Company will not be subject to United Kingdom income tax or corporation tax other than on United Kingdom source income. The Directors and the Manager each intend that the respective affairs of the Company and the Manager are conducted so that no permanent establishment will arise insofar as this is within their respective control, but it cannot be guaranteed that the conditions necessary to prevent any permanent establishment coming into being will at all times be satisfied.

Shareholders

The UK offshore funds regime: Reporting Fund Status

Shareholdings in the Company will constitute interests in "offshore funds", as defined for the purposes of the Taxation (International and Other Provisions) Act 2010 ("TIOPA 2010"), with each Class treated as a separate "offshore fund" for these purposes.

Therefore unless a Class applies for and is granted approval as a "reporting fund" (under previous rules, a "distributing fund") any profit on disposal (including a redemption) of Ordinary Shares referable to such Class by a United Kingdom resident Shareholder should be taxed as an "offshore income gain" for UK tax purposes, and should be subject to current UK income tax or corporation tax rates, as appropriate.

The Offshore Funds (Tax) Regulations 2009 (as amended) provide that if an investor resident in the United Kingdom for taxation purposes holds an interest in an offshore fund and that offshore fund is a "non-reporting fund", any gain accruing to that investor upon the sale or other disposal of that interest (which will include a redemption) will be charged to United Kingdom tax as income rather than a capital gain. Alternatively, where an investor resident in the United Kingdom holds an interest in an offshore fund that has been approved by HM Revenue & Customs ("HMRC") as a reporting fund for all periods of account for which they hold their interest, any gain accruing upon sale or other disposal of the interest (which will include a redemption) will be subject to tax as a capital gain rather than income.

Where an offshore fund has been a non-reporting fund for part of the time during which the UK Shareholder has held their interest and a reporting fund for the remainder of that time, it will be possible for the shareholder to make an election so that they are deemed to dispose of their interest at market value on the day before the Class becomes a reporting fund. The Shareholder would pay tax at the UK income tax rate on the deemed disposal. Future gains would be taxed at capital gains tax rates. In these circumstances, from the date the offshore fund changes status such elections have specified time limits in which they can be made.

In broad terms, a "reporting fund" is an offshore fund that has been approved as such by HMRC and that meets certain annual reporting requirements to HMRC and its shareholders. The Directors intend to manage the affairs of the Company such that they will be able to seek HMRC approval of each Class as a reporting fund and the requisite annual reporting duties are met and continue to be met on an ongoing basis. The Directors have obtained reporting fund status for the period commencing 1 July 2010 for the Ordinary Shares, and it should remain in place permanently provided the annual reporting requirements are satisfied.

Such annual reporting duties will include calculating and reporting the "reportable income" returns of the offshore fund for each reporting period (as defined for United Kingdom tax purposes) on a per-share basis to all relevant Shareholders (as defined for these purposes). UK Shareholders who hold their interests in the Company at the end of the reporting period to which the reported income relates, will be subject to income tax or corporation tax (as appropriate) on the excess of their share of the reportable income over any cash distributions actually paid out during the reporting period. The reported income (not paid out in cash) will be deemed to arise to United Kingdom Shareholders on the date the report is issued by the Directors provided that it is reported within 6 months of the year end (otherwise it is deemed to arise at the year end). To the extent that cash distributions are paid by the Classes, they will be subject to UK tax as dividends in the normal way.

It is currently intended that the reportable income information will be published via the Company website, using the link:

http://www.efg-hermes.com/Funds/EFG-Hermes MEDA Fund

If any investor requires a different format for the annual reporting process, they should inform the Directors as soon as possible.

Dividends

Subject to their personal circumstances, Shareholders resident in the United Kingdom for taxation purposes will be liable to United Kingdom income tax or corporation tax (as appropriate) in respect of dividends or other distributions of income by the Company, whether or not such distributions are reinvested, and also on amounts of reported income to the extent this exceeds dividends received.

Following the enactment of Finance Act 2009, from 1 July 2009, United Kingdom resident corporate shareholders in receipt of dividends from the Company may be able to rely on one of a number of exemptions from United Kingdom corporation tax in respect of such dividends. In addition, distributions to non-United Kingdom companies carrying on a trade in the United Kingdom through a permanent establishment in the United Kingdom may also fall within the exemption from United Kingdom corporation tax to the extent that the Ordinary Shares held by that company are used by, or held for, that permanent establishment. Reported income will be treated in the same way as a dividend distribution for these purposes.

The Corporation Tax Act 2009 ("CTA 2009") provides that, if at any time in an accounting period a person within the charge to United Kingdom corporation tax holds an interest in an offshore fund (as defined for these purposes), and there is a time in that period when that fund fails to satisfy the "non-qualifying investments test", shares in that fund will be treated as a loan relationship for United Kingdom Corporation Tax purposes. A fund is deemed to have failed the "non-qualifying investments test" if it invests more than 60 per cent of its assets in interest bearing (or similar) assets. Where the interest is treated as a loan relationship all returns on that interest in respect of such a person's accounting period (including gains, profits and losses) will be taxed or relieved as an income receipt or expense on a "mark to market" basis. Accordingly, such a person who acquires Ordinary Shares in the Company may, depending on its own circumstances, incur a charge to corporation tax on an unrealised increase in the value of its holding of Ordinary Shares (and, likewise, obtain relief against corporation tax for an unrealised reduction in the value of its holding of Ordinary Shares). Based on the current investment strategy, these rules are unlikely to apply.

Other United Kingdom Tax Considerations

Corporate investors resident in the UK should note the provisions of Chapter IV of Part XVII of ICTA 1988. These provisions may subject UK resident companies to corporation tax on profits of non-resident companies, controlled by persons resident in the UK, in which they have an interest. These provisions affect UK resident companies who have an interest of at least 25 percent in the profits of a non-UK resident company, where that non-UK resident company is controlled by residents of the UK and is resident in a low tax jurisdiction. This legislation is not presently directed towards the taxation of capital gains. Corporate shareholders should note that these rules are currently under review by the UK Government as part of a wider consultation process covering the Taxation of Foreign Profits. Although the scope of any reform cannot be accurately predicted, it is now expected that changes to the regime will be introduced by the Finance Bill 2012.

The attention of individuals ordinarily resident in the United Kingdom is drawn to the provisions of Chapter 2 of Part 13 of the Income Tax Act 2007. These provisions are aimed at preventing the avoidance of income tax by individuals through transactions resulting in the transfer of assets or income to persons (including companies) resident or domiciled outside the United Kingdom and may render them liable to income tax in respect of undistributed income and profits of the Company on an annual basis to the extent that they have not already been taxed on such income. The legislation is not directed towards the taxation of capital gains.

The attention of persons resident or ordinarily resident in the United Kingdom for taxation purposes should be drawn to the provisions of Section 13 of the Taxation of Chargeable Gains Act 1992. These provisions could be material to any such person whose proportionate interest in the Company (whether as a Shareholder or otherwise as a "participator") when aggregated with that of persons connected with that person is 10 percent, or greater, if, at the same time, the Company is controlled in such a manner that it would be a "close" company for United Kingdom taxation purposes, were it to be resident in the United Kingdom. Section 13 could, if applied, result in a person with such an interest in the Company being treated for the purposes of United Kingdom taxation of chargeable gains as if a part of any capital gain accruing to the Company (such as on a disposal of any of its investments) had accrued to that person directly, that part being equal to the proportion of the gain that corresponds to that person's proportionate interest in the Company (determined as mentioned above). It is anticipated that the holdings of the Ordinary Shares in the Company will be such as to ensure that the Company would not be a close company for the purposes of this UK legislation.

Because the Company is not incorporated in the United Kingdom and the register of holders of the Ordinary Shares will be kept outside the United Kingdom, no liability to stamp duty reserve tax will arise by reason of the transfer, subscription for or redemption of Ordinary Shares. Liability to stamp duty will not arise provided that any instrument in writing transferring Ordinary Shares in the Company is executed and retained at all times outside the United Kingdom.

United States Federal Income Taxation

The following is a brief summary of certain US federal income tax consequences that may be relevant to prospective investors. This summary is not a full description of the complex tax rules involved and is based upon the sections of the US Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"), US Treasury regulations, published IRS rulings, published administrative positions of the IRS and court decisions that are currently applicable, any or all of which could be materially and adversely changed, possibly on a retroactive basis, at any time. The Company has not sought any ruling from the IRS with respect to the statements made and the conclusions reached in this summary, and there can be no assurance that the IRS will agree with such statements and conclusions.

This summary does not discuss all aspects of US federal income taxation that may be relevant to a particular shareholder in light of his or her individual circumstances or to certain types of Shareholders subject to special treatment under the Code (for example, insurance companies, financial institutions, dealers or traders in securities, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, investors liable for the alternative minimum tax, persons or entities that have a functional currency other than the US dollar and holders of Ordinary Shares who hold them as part of a straddle, hedging or a conversion transaction). Special rules may apply in the case of Shareholders that are former citizens of the United States or that are considered, for US federal tax purposes, to be personal holding companies, "controlled foreign corporations" (each a "CFC"), "passive foreign investment companies" (each a "PFIC") or corporations subject to the accumulated earnings tax, and in some situations special rules may also apply to shareholders of the foregoing. This summary does not address any such special rules and does not take into account or anticipate any state, local or non-US tax considerations.

Accordingly, prospective purchasers of the Ordinary Shares should consult their own tax advisers with respect to the tax treatment of the acquisition, ownership and disposition of Ordinary Shares in light of their particular circumstances.

US Taxation of the Company

Effective 1 September 2009, the Company made an election (the "Election") to be treated as a partnership for US federal income tax purposes and expects to be so treated for US federal tax purposes. As of the effective date of the Election and based on the structure and operation of the Company, a Shareholder's allocable portion of the Company's income and gain generally should not be subject to US federal income tax, except as provided below.

Prior to the Election, the Company was taxable as a corporation for US federal income tax purposes. Furthermore, if the Election was not effective, the Company would be subject to regular US federal corporate income tax, plus a 30 percent branch profits tax, on its income (if any) effectively connected with a US trade or business, and any distributions to US Shareholders would be taxable as dividends to the extent of the earnings and profits of the Company. In addition, the Company could be classified either as a CFC or, more likely, as a PFIC, which could result in adverse tax consequences to the US Shareholders. Under present laws and regulations and judicial interpretations thereof, the Company does not believe that it will be classified and treated as an association taxable as a corporation as of the effective date of the Election.

A Shareholder would be subject to US federal income taxes on its allocable portion of the Company's income and gain realised by it only if the Company were viewed for US federal income tax purposes as being "engaged in a trade or business within the United States". Whether the Company will be viewed as engaged in a trade or business within the United States is a question of fact the answer to which will depend principally upon the activities that the Company conducts within the United States, including through any pass-through entity in which the Company invests. However, subject to certain exceptions, pursuant to a statutory "safe harbour" a non-US person (other than a dealer in stocks or commodities) that engages in trading stocks or securities (including contracts or options to buy or sell securities) for its own account is not deemed to be engaged in a US trade or business. The Company intends to conduct its businesses in a manner so as to meet the requirements of the safe harbour. The Company's anticipated trading activities, therefore, should not constitute a US trade or business and thus the Company should not be subject to the regular US federal income tax on any of its trading profits.

However, even if the Company complies with the requirements of this safe harbour, it is possible that the Company could be deemed to be engaged in a US trade or business as a result of its other investment activities (such as investments in certain pass-through entities engaged in a US trade or business). If the Company were deemed to be engaged in a US trade or business (for example, as a result of owning a limited partnership interest in a US business partnership or a similar ownership interest), a Shareholder's allocable portion of the income and gain deemed to be effectively connected with that trade or business would potentially be subject to US federal income tax at graduated rates. The Company will attempt to structure its investments so as to avoid US federal income taxation under the rules discussed in this paragraph.

In general, however, certain US source income that is not effectively connected with a US trade or business will be subject to US federal income tax at a flat rate of 30 percent on the gross amount, generally this tax is payable through withholding. Income subject to such a flat tax rate is described in the Code as being of a fixed or determinable annual or periodic nature, including dividends (which includes dividend equivalent amounts as such term is defined in the Code and certain interest income. If the Company earns such income (i.e. through an investment in another flow-through entity) the 30 percent tax rate may be reduced if a Shareholder is a resident of a country that has an income tax treaty with the United States.

Certain types of income specifically are exempted from the 30 percent tax and thus withholding is not required on payments of such income. The 30 percent tax does not apply to deposits with US banks or interest that qualifies as "portfolio interest". The term "portfolio interest" generally includes interest (including original issue discount) on an obligation in registered form and with respect to which the US person that would otherwise be required to deduct and withhold the 30 percent tax receives the required statement that the beneficial owner of the obligation is not a US person. Under certain circumstances, interest on bearer obligations issued before March 19, 2012 also may be considered portfolio interest. Contingent interest, however, is never "portfolio interest". Also exempt from the 30 percent tax is income from original issue discount obligations and obligations that are payable no more than one hundred and eight three days from the date of issue.

Furthermore, unless the Company enters into an agreement with the United States Treasury to perform diligence regarding their investors and report certain information to the IRS, and meet certain other conditions, then (A) payments to the Company of dividends, interest, and certain other categories of income from sources within the United States that are made after January 1, 2014 (other than such payments made with respect to certain "pre-existing" obligations), and (B) payments to the Company of gross proceeds from sales or other dispositions of property that can produce U.S. source interest or dividends that are made on or after January 1, 2017, may be subject to a 30% U.S. federal withholding tax.

US Taxation of Shareholders

For purposes of this summary, the term "US Shareholder" means a holder of Ordinary Shares that, for US federal income tax purposes, is: (a) an individual citizen or resident of the United States; (b) a corporation (including an entity treated as a corporation for US federal income tax purposes) that is created or organised in or under the laws of the United States, any State thereof or the District of Columbia; (c) an estate the income of which is subject to US federal income taxation regardless of its source; or (d) a trust (i) as to which one or more US persons (as defined for US federal tax purposes) have the authority to control all substantial decisions and over which a court within the United States is able to exercise primary supervision or (ii) that was in existence on 20 August 1996, was considered a US trust as of that date, and has in effect an election to continue to be so treated. The term "Non-US Shareholder" means a holder of Ordinary Shares that is not a US Shareholder. In general, beneficial owners in partnerships and other flow-through entities should be regarded as the relevant Shareholders of the Ordinary Shares (i.e. the relevant shareholder). Further, the following summary should be understood to pertain solely to investors who will own Ordinary Shares as capital assets within the meaning of the Code.

Non-US Shareholders

A Non-US Shareholder that is not considered to be "engaged in a trade or business within the United States" or otherwise subject to US taxation should generally not be subject to US federal income, branch profits or withholding taxes on any gain realised on a disposition of Ordinary Shares outside the United States or on Company distributions. However, in the case of a non-resident alien individual, such gain will be subject to US federal income tax at a 30 percent rate (or lower tax treaty rate) if such individual is present in the United States for one hundred and eighty three days or more during the taxable year and if certain other conditions are satisfied.

US Shareholders

As mentioned previously, the ownership of Ordinary Shares by US Shareholders generally will be restricted to Exempt Organisations and US Persons that qualify as "qualified purchasers" (as defined in the 1940 Act and the regulations promulgated thereunder). Where Ordinary Shares are held by an Exempt Organisation, special tax considerations apply.

General Taxation of Exempt Organisations

In general, a US Shareholder that is an Exempt Organisation will not be subject to federal income taxation except to the extent that it has "unrelated business taxable income" ("UBTI"). With exceptions for certain types of entities, UBTI generally is defined as gross income from a trade or business regularly carried on by an Exempt Organisation that is unrelated to its exempt purpose less any deduction attributable thereto and less a de minimis deduction of US$1,000. Activities of the Company will be attributable to an Exempt Organisation for purposes of determining UBTI. UBTI does not include (among other items) dividends, interest, royalties or gains from the sale or exchange or other disposition of property (other than inventory or property held primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of a trade or business). The definition of UBTI does, however, embrace the concept of "unrelated debt-financed income," which generally includes any income derived from property to the extent that there is "acquisition indebtedness" outstanding with respect to such property during the taxable year. Acquisition indebtedness includes any indebtedness incurred directly or indirectly to purchase such property.

The Company expects to neither incur indebtedness with respect to its investments nor generate UBTI from its investments. If an Exempt Organisation does not incur any indebtedness in connection with its acquisition of Ordinary Shares, the Company does not anticipate an Exempt Organisation to incur UBTI with respect to its ownership of Ordinary Shares.

If, however, an Exempt Organisation incurs indebtedness in connection with its acquisition of Ordinary Shares, all or a portion of the income or gain attributed to those Ordinary Shares will be included in and taxable as UBTI under the "debt financed property" regime described above.

Tax Shelter Regulations Considerations

Treasury regulations pertaining to the identification of "tax shelters" may require the Company (and possibly other parties) to maintain a list of US Shareholders. This list sets forth the identity and taxpayer identification number of each US Shareholder, and may be subject to disclosure to the US tax authorities upon request. In addition, each US Shareholder may also be required to make certain annual disclosures to the IRS with respect to an investment in the Company.

Reporting

A U.S. person within the meaning of the Code that transfers cash to a non-U.S. partnership will likely be required to report the transfer to the IRS if (i) immediately after the transfer, such person holds (directly, indirectly or by attribution) at least 10% of ownership interest of such partnership or (ii) the amount of cash transferred by such person (or any related person) to such partnership during the twelve-month period ending on the date of the transfer exceeds US$100,000. The Company has not committed to provide all of the information about the Company or its Shareholders needed to complete the return. US Shareholders are urged to consult their own tax advisors concerning this and any other reporting requirement.

A US person (and, in certain cases, a non-US person who is engaged in business in the US) who owns an interest in certain foreign financial accounts that, in the aggregate, are worth more than US$10,000 during any part of a calendar year should file a Report of Foreign Bank and Financial Accounts (an "FBAR") with respect to such accounts by June 30 following the close of such calendar year. It is not clear whether a Shareholder's investment in the Company should be treated as a foreign financial account for purposes of the FBAR filing requirements. The penalties for failing to file an FBAR when required can be severe.

In General

In considering whether to invest assets of any benefit plan in the Company, the persons acting on behalf of the plan should consider in the plan's particular circumstances whether the investment will be consistent with their responsibilities and any special constraints imposed by the terms of the plan and by applicable U.S., state or other law, including ERISA and the Code. Some of the responsibilities and constraints imposed by ERISA on employee benefit plans subject to the fiduciary responsibility provisions of Title I of ERISA ("ERISA Plans") and by the Code on retirement plans and other arrangements subject to Code Section 4975, including plans covering only partners or other self-employed individuals ("Keogh" plans) and individual retirement accounts (collectively, "Qualified Plans" and, together with ERISA Plans, "Plans"), are summarized below. The following is merely a summary of those particular laws, however, and should not be construed as legal advice or as complete in all relevant respects. In addition, governmental plans, certain church plans, non-U.S. plans and other benefit plans not subject to ERISA or the prohibited transaction provisions of the Code may nevertheless be subject to similar federal, state, foreign or other laws. All investors are urged to consult their legal advisors before investing assets of a benefit plan, including an ERISA Plan or Qualified Plan, in the Company, and must make their own independent decisions. In addition, ERISA Plans and Qualified Plans should consider the applicability to them of the Code provisions relating to unrelated business taxable income or "UBTI."

Fiduciary Responsibilities With Respect to ERISA Plans>

Persons acting as fiduciaries on behalf of an ERISA Plan are subject to specific standards of behaviour in the discharge of their responsibilities pursuant to Section 404(a)(1) of ERISA. Consequently, in determining whether to invest assets of an ERISA Plan in the Company, the Plan's fiduciaries must conclude that an investment in the Company would be prudent and in the best interests of Plan participants and their beneficiaries. They must also determine that any such investment would be in accordance with the documents and instruments governing the ERISA Plan, would provide the Plan with sufficient liquidity in light of the limitations upon a Shareholder's ability to redeem or transfer Ordinary Shares in the Company, and would satisfy applicable diversification requirements. They must consider the potential returns on the proposed investment in the Company, taking into account the risk of loss and opportunity for gain. In making those determinations, such persons should take into account, among the other factors described in this Explanatory Memorandum, that the Company will invest its assets in accordance with the investment objectives and policies expressed in this Explanatory Memorandum without regard to the particular objectives or investment policies of any class of investors, including ERISA Plans and Qualified Plans. Such persons should also take into account, as discussed below, that it is not expected that the Company's assets will constitute the "plan assets" of any investing ERISA Plan or Qualified Plan, so that none of the Company, the Directors, the Manager, the Investment Adviser, the Investment Committee or any of their principals, agents, employees, or affiliates, will be a fiduciary as to any investing ERISA Plan or Qualified Plan. See also "Identification of Plan Assets" below.

Prohibited Transactions

ERISA Plans and Qualified Plans are subject to special rules limiting direct and indirect transactions involving the assets of the Plan and certain persons related to the Plan, termed "parties in interest" under ERISA and "disqualified persons" under the Code. Parties in interest and disqualified persons include any fiduciary to a Plan, any service provider to a Plan, the employer sponsoring a Plan, and certain persons affiliated with a fiduciary, service provider or employer. In addition, ERISA and the Code prohibit fiduciaries of a Plan from engaging in various acts of self-dealing. A party in interest engaging in a "prohibited transaction" may be subject to substantial excise tax penalties and possibly personal liability. Further, any fiduciary to an ERISA Plan taking or permitting any action which the fiduciary knows or should know constitutes a "prohibited transaction" may be personally liable for any loss resulting to the ERISA Plan from such transaction, and subject to forfeiture of any gain derived by the fiduciary from the transaction. The persons acting on behalf of an investing Plan should consider whether an investment of Plan assets in the Company might constitute such a prohibited transaction, as might occur for example if the Manager, the Investment Adviser or one of its affiliates were a fiduciary to the investing Plan with respect to the purchase of Ordinary Shares in the Company.

Identification of Plan Assets

Under Section 3(42) of ERISA and U.S. Department of Labor Regulations Section 2510.3-101, as modified by Section 3(42) of ERISA (together, the "Plan Asset Rules"), an investing Plan will be treated as owning Ordinary Shares in the Company, but the underlying assets of the Company will not be treated as part of the assets of the investing Plan. Under the Plan Asset Rules, however, the assets of the Company may be considered to include assets of the investing Plans if, immediately after any acquisition of an equity interest in the Company, twenty-five percent (25%) or more of the value of any class of equity interests in the Company is held by "Benefit Plan Investors." A Benefit Plan Investor means an ERISA Plan, a Qualified Plan, or an entity deemed to hold plan assets under the Plan Asset Rules by reason of investment in the entity by ERISA Plans or Qualified Plans. However, entities which hold plan assets are generally considered to be Benefit Plan Investors only to the extent that their equity interests are held by Benefit Plan Investors, although special rules apply to certain entities, including insurance companies investing assets of their separate accounts and bank collective trust funds. In performing the 25% calculation, interests in the Company held by persons (and their affiliates) who provide investment advice to the Company for a fee, direct or indirect or have discretionary authority over the Company's assets, are disregarded (including the Manager, the Investment Adviser, the Investment Committee and the Directors). Based on Department of Labor guidance, the 25% test should be performed after each acquisition, redemption or transfer of Ordinary Shares in the Company.

Consequences of Plan Asset Status

Under ERISA and the Code, a person who exercises any discretionary authority or discretionary control respecting the management or disposition of the assets of a Plan or who renders investment advice for a fee to a Plan is generally considered to be a fiduciary of such Plan. Consequently, should the 25% threshold be exceeded as to any class of equity interest in the Company, the Directors, the Manager, the Investment Adviser, and the Investment Committee could be characterized as fiduciaries of the investing Plans. As a result, various transactions between the Company on the one hand and these parties or their affiliates, or other parties in interest or disqualified persons with respect to the investing Plans on the other, could constitute prohibited transactions under ERISA or the Code. In addition, the prudence standards and other provisions of Title I of ERISA applicable to investments by ERISA Plans and their fiduciaries would extend to investments made by the Company and the ERISA Plan fiduciaries who made a decision to invest the Plan's assets in the Company could, under certain circumstances, be liable as co-fiduciaries for actions taken by the Company, the Directors, the Manager, the Investment Adviser or the Investment Committee. As a result, the operations and investments of the Company may be limited, resulting in a lower return to the Company than might otherwise be the case. Finally, certain other requirements of ERISA, such as the "indicia of ownership" rules (see below under "Holding of Indicia of Ownership"), may become applicable to, but not be satisfied as to, the assets of the Company.

Limitation on Investment by Benefit Plan Investors

In order that the assets of the Company are not treated as including "plan assets" under ERISA and the Code, the Board of Directors does not currently intend to permit the investment by Benefit Plan Investors in any class of the Company's equity interests to equal or exceed twenty-five percent (25%) at any time. Accordingly, the Directors have the right, in their sole and absolute discretion, to reject any proposed investment by a prospective or existing investor, to deny approval for any transfer of Ordinary Shares and to require that a Shareholder redeem all or part of its Ordinary Shares. However, the Directors reserve the right, in their sole discretion, to permit investment by Benefit Plan Investors to exceed the 25% threshold and to comply thereafter with the applicable provisions of ERISA and the Code.

Representations by Benefit Plan Investors

The fiduciaries of each ERISA Plan or Qualified Plan proposing to invest in the Company will be required to represent that they have been informed of and understand the Company's investment objectives, policies and strategies and that the decision to invest the Plan's assets in the Company is consistent with the Plan's terms and the applicable provisions of ERISA and the Code. The fiduciaries of investing Plans will also be required to represent that they are not relying upon the investment or other advice of the Company, the Directors, the Manager, the Investment Adviser or the Investment Committee or their affiliates in investing in the Company, and that the acquisition and holding of Ordinary Shares in the Company will not constitute a non-exempt "prohibited transaction" under ERISA or the Code. Finally, any entity that is a Benefit Plan Investor immediately prior to its acquisition of an interest in the Company or at any time thereafter while it continues to hold any interest in the Company must notify the Company of its status as a Benefit Plan Investor prior to its initial acquisition, or, if it first becomes a Benefit Plan Investor after its initial acquisition of an interest in the Company, a reasonable time in advance of becoming a Benefit Plan Investor. Each entity that is a Benefit Plan Investor must also advise the Company of the percentage of its equity interests which are held by Benefit Plan Investors, and must notify the Company a reasonable time in advance of any change in that percentage.

Holding of Indicia of Ownership

Assets of ERISA Plans must comply with the “indicia of ownership” rules set forth in Section 404(b) of ERISA, which require the fiduciaries of ERISA Plans to maintain the indicia of ownership of any assets of the Plans within the jurisdiction of the United States district courts. For purposes of ERISA, a Shareholder’s ownership will be evidenced by the Shareholder’s fully executed subscription document. Fiduciaries of ERISA Plans who are considering an investment of Plan assets in the Company should consult their own legal advisers regarding compliance with these rules.

Reporting Requirements

ERISA Plans and Qualified Plans are required to determine the fair market value of their assets as of the close of each Plan’s fiscal year. ERISA Plans and certain Qualified Plans are also required to file annual reports (Form 5500 series and Form 5498) with the Department of Labor or the Internal Revenue Service. To facilitate fair market value determinations, and to enable fiduciaries of Plans to satisfy their annual reporting requirements as they relate to an investment in the Company, Shareholders will be furnished annually with audited financial statements as described in this Explanatory Memorandum. There can be no assurance (i) that any value established on the basis of such statements could or will actually be realized by investors upon the Company’s liquidation, (ii) that investors could realize such value if they were able to, and were to sell their Ordinary Shares, or (iii) that such value will in all circumstances satisfy the applicable ERISA or Code reporting requirements.

In addition, the fiduciaries of a Plan investing in the Company are notified that the information in this Explanatory Memorandum in relation to: (w) the compensation received by the Manager hereunder; (x) the services provided by the Manager for such compensation and the purpose for the payment of the compensation; (y) a description of the formula used to calculate the compensation; and (z) the identity of the parties paying and receiving the compensation, is intended to satisfy the alternative reporting option with respect to compensation of the Manager that is reportable on Schedule C of the Plan’s Form 5500.

GENERAL INFORMATION

1. Incorporation and Ordinary Share Capital

The Company was incorporated in Bermuda on 30 June 1998 with limited liability and unlimited duration under the Companies Act 1981 of Bermuda and its registered number is 25155.

The Company was incorporated with an authorised share capital of US$12,000 divided into 1,200,000 Ordinary Shares at a par value of US$0.01 each. On 28 June 1999, the authorised share capital of the Company was increased to US$250,000 by the creation of an additional 23,800,000 Ordinary Shares. The minimum share capital of US$12,000 was initially subscribed for by the Manager (upon terms that such A Class Ordinary Shares would form part of the Initial Offer and would be paid in full at a price of US$10.00 on or shortly after the closing date) upon incorporation of the Company and such Ordinary Shares were allotted and issued on 1 July 1998.

From February to April 2008, the Company was over-subscribed, which in turn meant that, due to a discrepancy, the Company has issued 5,660,640 Ordinary Shares in excess of its authorised share capital. Please note that the discrepancy had no impact on the Net Asset Value of the Company. The Company has since rectified this issue by following the appropriate Bermudan law procedures. The authorised share capital is now US$500,000, which means the Company may issue at total of 50,000,000 Ordinary Shares to investors. This discrepancy has had no impact on the value of existing Shareholder's investments in the Company.

Investors are advised to consult the marketing information on the Company for up-to-date information on the issued share capital of the Company.

Subject to the transfer restrictions set out under the heading "Important Information" of this document and any other terms which may be agreed between Shareholders and the Company on subscription for Ordinary Shares, the Ordinary Shares issued by the Company are freely transferable (save where the holding of the Ordinary Shares by the transferee would result in any regulatory or legal disadvantage for the Company or its Shareholders as a whole), and are issued in registered form and holders are entitled, on request to a certificate in respect of their holdings. Fractions of Ordinary Shares may be issued.

No pre-emption rights exist in respect of the Ordinary Shares, either under Bermuda law, under the Bye-laws or otherwise.

Save as disclosed in this paragraph 1 above:

- (a) no Ordinary Shares have been issued or agreed to be issued for cash or other consideration and no such Ordinary Shares are now proposed to be issued;
- (b) no commissions, discounts or brokerages or special terms have been granted in connection with the issue or sale of the Ordinary Shares; and
- (c) no Ordinary Shares are under option or agreed conditionally or unconditionally to be put under option.

2. Shareholder Rights

The following is a summary of the respective rights attaching to the A Class Ordinary Shares and C Class Ordinary Shares.

The Ordinary Shares carry the sole right to receive income and on a liquidation carry the sole right to participate in any amounts payable to Shareholders. On a show of hands every holder of Ordinary Shares shall have one vote, and on a poll, Ordinary Shares each carry one vote. The Ordinary Shares are redeemable at the option of the holder and at the option of the Company in accordance with the provisions detailed in the Applications and Redemptions section of this document.

The Net Asset Value of any Ordinary Share is calculated by determining the Net Asset Value maintained in and dividing the resultant sum by the number of Ordinary Shares of that class in issue.

The rights attached to any class of Ordinary Shares may be varied or abrogated with the consent in writing of the holders of not less than three-fourths of the issued Ordinary Shares of that class or with the sanction of a resolution passed at a separate general meeting of the holders of Ordinary Shares of that class by a majority of three-fourths of the votes cast at such general meeting. The provisions of the Bye-laws relating to general meetings apply, mutatis mutandis, to every such separate general meeting, except that the quorum shall comprise at least two members representing not less than one-third of the issued Ordinary Shares of that class, or if the meeting is adjourned through lack of quorum, the holders of any Ordinary Shares of that class.

3. Directors and Other Interests

The following information should be noted in relation to the Directors and the Company:

- (a) there are no service contracts in existence between the Company and any of its Directors, nor are any such contracts proposed;
- (b) save as disclosed herein, no Director has any interest, direct or indirect, in the promotion of the Company and no Director is materially interested in any contract or arrangement subsisting at the date hereof which is significant in relation to the business of the Company or is unusual in its nature;
- (c) save as disclosed herein, no Director of the Company or any connected person has any interest, direct or indirect, in the share capital of the Company; and
- (d) the Directors' Fees payable by the Company to the Directors were US$37,500 in 2000, US$30,000 in 2001 and eliminated in 2002. No Directors' Fees have been paid to the executive directors since 2002. However, from April 2009, each of the non-executive Directors have been entitled to an annual fee of US$25,000.

4. Ordinary Share Certificates

Ordinary Shares are issued in registered form in the Shareholder's name in the register of members of the Company. Unless a Shareholder specially requests in writing, no share certificates will be issued. Each Shareholder not requesting a certificate will, however, be issued with a personal account number relating to such Shareholder's purchases of Ordinary Shares. Upon written request, certificates for any number of Ordinary Shares will be issued by the Company and sent to the Shareholder at the address entered on the register of Shareholders. In the event of a request for a certificate, a certificate of Ordinary Shares will be sent to the person in whose name they are registered or, if more than one person, the first person whose name appears on the register, at the risk of the holder of such Ordinary Shares.

5. General Meetings

The Company is required to have one annual general meeting of the Shareholders in each year. Special general meetings of the Shareholders may be convened by the Directors or upon the written requisition of a Shareholder or Shareholders in the Company carrying the right to not less than one-tenth of the votes exercisable at general meetings of the Company. The quorum requirement for general meetings is two shareholders present in person or by proxy holding or representing not less than one-quarter of the Ordinary Shares then in issue.

Notice of an annual general meeting must be sent to each Shareholder at his address in the register of Shareholders at least twenty-one days before the meeting takes place stating the time, date, place and the object of the meeting.

Notice of a special general meeting must be sent in the same manner.

6. Memorandum and Bye-laws

The principal object of the Company, as specified in clause 6 of its Memorandum of Association is to be a mutual fund and in furtherance thereof to acquire, hold, sell, dispose of and otherwise deal in property of all kinds.

In addition to provisions effectively dealt with elsewhere in this document, the Bye-laws contain the following additional material provisions:

Directors' Interests

Provided the nature and extent of his interest is or has been declared in accordance with the Bye-laws, a Director may enter into any contract or arrangement with the Company or in which the Company is interested and such contract or arrangement shall not be liable to be avoided and the Director concerned shall not be liable to account to the Company for any profit or benefit realised by any such contract or arrangement by reason of his holding of that office or the fiduciary relationship so established and may hold any other office (except that of the auditors) or place of profit with the Company in conjunction with the office of Director on such terms as to tenure of office and otherwise as the Directors may determine.

A Director shall not vote, or be counted in the quorum, at a meeting of the Directors on any resolution in respect of his appointment (or the arrangement of the terms of such appointment) to hold any office or place of profit with the Company or in respect of any contract or arrangement in which he is materially interested. This prohibition does not apply (in the absence of some material interest other than as indicated below), inter alia, to:

- (a) the giving of any security, guarantee or indemnity to him in respect of money lent or obligations incurred by him for the benefit of the Company;
- (b) the giving of any security, guarantee or indemnity to any third party in respect of any debt or obligation of the Company for which he himself has assumed responsibility under a guarantee or indemnity or by the giving of security;
- (c) any contract or arrangement by a Director to guarantee or underwrite shares or debentures in the Company; or
- (d) any proposals concerning any other company in which he is interested (directly or indirectly) as an officer, shareholder, creditor or otherwise, provided that he is not the holder of or is beneficially interested in no more than 1 percent, of any class of the issued equity share capital of such company or of the voting rights available to members of the relevant company, any such interest being deemed for the purposes of the Bye-laws to be a material interest in all circumstances.

The Company in general meeting may suspend or relax the provisions described above to any extent or ratify any transaction not duly authorised by reason of a contravention thereto.

Each Director shall be entitled to such remuneration for his services as the Directors may determine provided that the aggregate remuneration of the Directors in any one year shall not exceed US$100,000 plus expenses or such other sum as the Company may in general meeting determine.

Increase and Reduction of Capital

Subject to the laws of Bermuda, the Company may in general meeting increase its capital by such sum divided into shares of such amounts and in such classes with such rights as the resolution shall prescribe, and may consolidate and divide its shares or any of them into shares of a larger amount, cancel any shares not taken or agreed to be taken by any person or sub-divide its shares or any of them into shares of a smaller amount or change the currency denomination of its share capital. All new shares are subject to the provisions of the Bye-laws with reference to transfer, transmission, redemption and otherwise. The Company in general meeting may by resolution reduce its share capital and may reduce any capital reserve or any share premium account in any manner authorised by law.

Variation of Rights

Whenever the Company's share capital is divided into more than one class, the rights attached to any class of share may be varied or abrogated with the consent in writing of the holders of not less than three-fourths of the issued shares of that class or with the sanction of a resolution passed at a separate general meeting of the holders of shares of that class by a majority of three-fourths of the votes cast at such general meeting. Provisions of the Bye-laws relating to general meetings apply, mutatis mutandis, to every such separate general meeting, except that the quorum shall be at least two members representing not less than one-third of the issued shares of that class, or if the meeting is adjourned through lack of quorum, the holders of any shares of that class.

Borrowing Powers

Subject to any other restriction which appears in this document, the Directors may exercise all the powers of the Company to borrow money and to mortgage or charge its undertaking, property, and assets or any part thereof, and to issue debentures, debenture stock or other securities, whether outright or as a security for any debts.

Retirement of Directors

There is no provision for the retirement of Directors on their attaining a certain age.

Transfer of Ordinary Shares

There are limitations on transfers and redemptions of all Ordinary Shares meaning that Ordinary Shares may not be transferred or assigned if the transfer would, in the opinion of the Directors, result in a breach of certain qualification and eligibility criteria as set out in the Bye-laws, including a violation of any applicable securities laws. Further no transfer of Ordinary Shares may be made if such transfer would in the opinion of the Directors: (i) prejudice the tax status or residence of the Company or any of the Shareholders; (ii) cause the Company or any of its Shareholders to suffer any pecuniary, fiscal or legal or regulatory disadvantage; (iii) cause the Company to require to comply with any registration or filing requirements in any jurisdiction with which it would not otherwise be required to comply; or (iv) cause the aggregate number of US Persons who are beneficial owners of Ordinary Shares to exceed eighty (or such greater number as the Directors may determine, subject to an overall limit of one hundred) or require registration of the Company as an investment company under the 1940 Act. Transfers of Ordinary Shares are subject to the prior execution by the transferor of an executed transfer agreement in a form and substance satisfactory to the Company containing representations, warranties and agreements similar to those contained in the subscription agreement and acceptable to the Company.

Unclaimed Dividends

Any dividend unclaimed after a period of six years from the date of declaration of such dividend shall be automatically forfeited and shall revert to the Company.

7. Miscellaneous

- (a) There have been no governmental, legal or arbitration proceedings (including any such proceedings which are pending or threatened of which the Company is aware) since incorporation of the Company which may have, or have had in the recent past, a significant effect on the Company's financial position or profitability.
- (b) The Company assumes no responsibility for the withholding of tax at source (investors are referred to the Taxation section above for more details of the tax treatment of the Company and its Shareholders).
